In January 1969, the Beatles abandoned the familiar confines of EMI Studios on Abbey Road by rehearsing at Twickenham Film Studios and recording an album’s worth of songs in the basement and on the roof of Apple’s Sevile Row headquarters. The Beatles began recording sessions with three different producers—Glyn Johns, George Martin, and Chris Thomas alternating at the helm. After this erratic start to the year, the group decided it was time to get back to where they once belonged. That July, the Beatles returned to Abbey Road, where seven years earlier they had their first recording session with George Martin. The band recaptured the magic and camaraderie that was missing during the January sessions, and the resulting album, Abbey Road, quickly topped the charts in both the UK and the US. Although the group’s January 1969 recordings would eventually be issued on Let It Be in May 1970, Abbey Road would be the last album recorded by the Beatles. This latest book in Bruce Spizer’s Beatles album series covers all of the records released by the Beatles in 1969, from “Get Back” onward.

Bruce Spizer has written eight critically acclaimed Beatles books, including The Beatles Records on Vee-Jay, The Beatles’ Story on Capitol Records, The Beatles on Apple Records, and The Birth of Beatlemania in America. He has appeared on several national television programs (ABC’s Good Morning America, CBS’s Early Show, CNN, and Fox National News) and radio programs (NPR, ABC, BBC) as a Beatles expert and has given presentations in such venues as the Grammy Museum, the Rock ‘N’ Roll Hall of Fame and Museum, and Beatles conventions in the United States and Liverpool. Bruce serves a consultant on Beatles projects for Universal Music Group, Capitol records, and Apple Corps, Ltd.
JPY: The Autobiography

John Paul Young, OAM

The 1970s pop icon John Paul Young is a legend of the Australian music industry. From his humble beginnings as a Scottish immigrant and sheet metal worker to the star of musicals and the pop charts, JPY remains one of the hardest working men in the Australian show business. With hits including “Yesterday’s Hero,” “Standing in the Rain,” and “I Hate the Music,” Young never could have predicted he would get a second chance at fame when his hit, “Love Is in the Air,” was re-released on the soundtrack of the hit Australia film Strictly Ballroom. While Young never stopped touring and performing, it was the beginning of a career resurgence and almost two decades later he is still touring with his Allstar Band. JPY: The Autobiography is packed with stories from a career in showbiz spanning almost 50 years—from the golden years of Australian pop to the struggles of life on the road.

John Paul Young (JPY), OAM is a Scottish-born Australian pop singer famous for the 1978 worldwide hit “Love Is in the Air”. His career was boosted by regular appearances as a performer and guest host on national broadcaster, ABC’s 1974–1987 TV series, Countdown. JPY was inducted into the ARIA Hall of Fame in 2009. He was awarded his OAM in 2012 for service to the performing arts and for supporting a range of charitable organizations.

The Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers Compendium

Gilbert Shelton

“Gilbert Shelton is as near as comics have come to producing a natural comedic genius” —Alan Moore, author, Watchmen

This book is an introduction sampler to The Freak Brothers for the new reader, containing a selection of the best classic comic strips from the past 50 years. Gilbert Shelton’s comics and books have now sold over 40 million copies worldwide in 17 languages.

Gilbert Shelton’s unlikely first venture into the world of comic art was doing strips for Boy Scout publications when he was in the Explorer Scouts at school. After contributing to various underground comix with his earliest character, Wonder Wart-Hog, and designing posters for rock concerts, he created The Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers. He lives in Paris.

Rise Up
The #Merky Story So Far

Stormzy

“Part inspirational self-help manual, part business guide, part exploration of how its author—aided by the team around him, given equal voice in the oral history format—transformed himself into the scene’s biggest star.” —Guardian, Books of the Year

In four years Stormzy has risen from one of the most promising musicians of his generation to a spokesperson for a generation. Rise Up is the story of how he got there. It’s a story about faith and the ideas worth fighting for. It’s about knowing where you’re from and where you’re going. It’s about following your dreams without compromising who you are. Featuring never-before-seen photographs, annotated lyrics, and contributions from those closest to him, Rise Up is the #Merky story, and the record of a journey unlike any other.

Stormzy is a musician from Thornton Heath, south London. In 2017 he won the BBC Music Award for Artist of the Year, and received two BRIT Awards for Male Solo Artist and Best Album in 2018. His debut album, Gang Signs & Prayer, debuted at #1 in the UK album charts, the first ever grime album to do so. The album was subsequently nominated for the Mercury Music Prize and also won the Ivor Novello Album Award in June 2018.

The Second Summer of Love
How Dance Music Took Over the World
Alon Shulman

As the eighties drew to their close, with Thatcherism holding Britain tight in its grip, something funny was happening right across the jungle of the country’s nightlife scene. People were dressing down, not up, to go to clubs. And they were dancing right through the night armed seemingly with only bottles of water. Ecstasy and acid house music had arrived on British shores, and a battle for the moral future of the nation, between the youth and the establishment, had begun. In this book, author and dance music promoter Alon Shulman uses exclusive contributions from the world’s biggest DJs—including Paul Oakenfold, Carl Cox, Fatboy Slim, Moby, The Prodigy, Boy George, and many others—to faithfully recreate the summers of 1988 and 1989 and chart the birth and rise of acid house, dance music, and club culture right through to the modern day. Complete with stunning unseen photographs, this is the first authentic account of what really happened in that glorious period—from the politics and the people to the music, drugs, and fashion—told by those who were there and took part in the creation of the underground scene that inadvertently altered the course of global youth culture forever.

Alon Shulman is an award winning festival, club, and live experience promoter and producer who has worked with many of the biggest DJ’s and live acts in dance music. Owner of the pioneering dance music brand Universe™, he is also the founder and CEO of the World Famous Group—a multimedia entertainment company focused on events and activation-based content generating.

Decca
The Supreme Record Company: The Story of Decca Records 1929-2019
Daryl Easlea and Darren Henley

Decca is one of the great global names in recorded music. From pioneering techniques that revolutionized classical recording, to the 1960s and ’70s pop explosion, through to the classical revival in the 1990s and 2000s, the sheer diversity of Decca’s story and its influence on 20th- and 21st-century music is unparalleled. Featuring rare photography and never-seen-before archival material, this sumptuously produced history includes twelve chapters covering Decca’s foundation and growth, its characteristic sound, its boom during the pop years, and its involvement with acts that range from Vera Lynn to the Rolling Stones, from David Bowie, Luciano Pavarotti and the Three Tenors, to today’s crossover superstars such as Andrea Bocelli and Sheku Kanneh-Mason. Full of lively anecdotes and insights into the label’s broader contribution to culture, Decca: The Supreme Record Company is a treat for collectors, aficionados, and anyone fascinated by the development of modern music.

Darren Henley is the author of more than 30 books about the arts and two independent government reviews into music education and cultural education. Chief executive of Arts Council England since 2015, he spent 15 years leading Classic FM, first as managing editor and then as managing director. Appointed OBE for services to music, he is a recipient of the British Academy President’s Medal. Daryl Easlea is a writer, DJ, and A&R consultant whose books include Everybody Dance: Chic and the Politics of Disco; Talent Is an Asset: The Story of Sparks; and Without Frontiers: The Life and Music of Peter Gabriel.
Like Falling Through a Cloud
A Lyrical Memoir

Eugenia Zukerman

"Eugenia Zuckerman reminds us of the delicate balance between human fragility and resilience." — Yo-Yo Ma, Cellist

What if the dreaded world of Alzheimer’s was also a world of emotional discovery? Eugenia Zukerman’s poetry and simple prose, both heartbreaking and ultimately inspirational, ushers the reader into her world as she unflinchingly examines familial loyalties, moments from her past and present, and the need to face an uncertain future due to the diagnosis of a condition that she truly hopes “will remain unnamed.” Flutist, writer, artistic director of a major music series, television journalist, educator, and internet entrepreneur, Zukerman addresses her “lapses and losses” as she confronts and deals with a future under the shadow of her Alzheimer’s diagnosis. Touching, honest, and fearlessly heartfelt, Zukerman recounts her discovery, consultations, and diagnosis, all while navigating the death of her 103-year-old mother, a performance at the Kennedy Center, and the consolidation of her life during a move to upstate New York. As she finds strength in family love, through self-examination via Cognitive Behavioral Therapy, and the enduring power of creating music, Zukerman teaches us the importance of living-in-the-now, while accepting what comes next may remain a mystery.

Hailed by the press as “one of the finest flutists of our time,” Eugenia Zukerman is an internationally renowned recitalist and soloist who enjoys her busy schedule as a performer, writer, artistic director, and educator. She was the Artistic Director of the Bravo! Vail Valley Music Festival in Vail, Colorado for 13 years and the Arts Correspondent on CBS Sunday Morning for more than 25 years. Her list of writing credits includes four books and multiple screenplays, articles, and book reviews. A Massachusetts native, Zukerman makes her home in upstate New York with her husband, two horses, three dogs, and assorted wildlife.
The Russian Five
A Story of Espionage, Defection, Bribery and Courage

Keith Gave

The hardcover edition has sold more than 15,000 copies

When the Detroit Red Wings were rebooting their franchise after more than two decades of relative futility, they knew the best place to look for world-class players was behind the Iron Curtain. That’s when the Wings turned to Keith Gave, the newsman whose clandestine mission to Helsinki, Finland was the first phase of a years-long series of secret meetings from posh hotel rooms to remote forests around Europe to orchestrate the hockey players’ unlawful departures from the Soviet Union. One defection created an international incident and made global headlines. Another player faked cancer, thanks to the Wings’ extravagant bribes to Russian doctors. Another player, who wasn’t quite ready to leave, felt like he was being kidnapped by an unscrupulous agent. Two others were outcast when they stood up publicly against the Soviet regime, winning their freedom to play in the NHL only after years of struggle. They are the Russian Five: Sergei Fedorov, Viacheslav Fetisov, Vladimir Konstantinov, Vyacheslav Kozlov, and Igor Larionov. Their individual stories read like pulse-pounding spy novels, but their convergence in Detroit under the masterful coach Scotty Bowman is unforgettable. This book includes newly uncovered details from the man who was there every step of the way—from the day Detroit drafted its first two Soviets in 1989 until they raised the Stanley Cup in 1997, then took it to Moscow for a victory lap around Red Square and the Kremlin.

Keith Gave spent six years in the United States Army as a Russian linguist working for the National Security Agency during the Cold War, then began a career as a sports writer covering hockey for the Detroit Free Press. He also served as writer/producer for the soon-to-be-released documentary film, The Russian Five.

Survivor’s Obligation
Navigating an Intentional Life

Chris Stricklin and Joel Neeb

“Two incredible personal stories of survival ... This book is for anyone traveling the unpredictable path of life.” —Lee Woodruff, coauthor, In an Instant

Chris Stricklin was ejected from the F-16 he was piloting during a Thunderbirds air show. Joel Neeb was diagnosed with a rare and often fatal cancer. Against the odds, both survived. Chris and Joel met years after their individual life-changing events and discovered they both had a desire to share their stories to help others. They each resolved to fulfill what they call survivor’s obligation—a responsibility to live an intentional life—for themselves and their families, and in honor of those who didn’t get a second chance. In Survivor’s Obligation: Chris and Joel tell the true stories that transformed their lives, initiating a journey of healing through gratitude, growth, and giving. Reflection questions in the back of the book allow readers to find connections in their own lives and inspiration for navigating an intentional life.

Chris Stricklin is an award-winning leadership author and speaker, and president of Dunn University, where he leads recruitment and training for Dunn Investment Co. A former fighter pilot, he retired after 23 years as an active duty officer with the U.S. Air Force. Joel Neeb is CEO of Afterburner, Inc. His team of former fighter pilots, Navy SEALs, and Army Rangers offers leadership and team-building strategies for Fortune 100 companies and professional sports teams. A former fighter pilot, Joel competes in international sports events.

Enduring the Cure
My MS Journey to the Brink of Death and Back
Rachel Carter, Margaret Godfrey, and Adrienne van Der Valk

The best word to describe Rachel Carter’s life was fearless. She drove a motorcycle in high school, worked in a cannery in Alaska at twenty, and then traveled solo in Europe. When she finally “settled down,” she married Josh and pursued a career in sales. She lived a picture-perfect life. Then Multiple Sclerosis caught up with her. After two years of rapid decline, Rachel found herself lying on the floor, writhing in agony, and hoping to die. In Enduring the Cure, Rachel Carter shares how she overcame her struggle with the debilitating disease. It’s a story of pain, decline, an experimental treatment, and healing. But most of all, it’s a story of inspiration, determination, and hope for anyone who has suffered a debilitating disease or diagnosis.

Rachel Carter’s fearless youth prepared her to overcome the struggles of MS in adulthood. She holds a degree in Communications from Portland State University and lives in Vancouver, Washington with her husband, Josh, and three children. Margaret Godfrey is an artist. She lives in Oregon. Adrienne van der Valk is the communications director for the Center for Genetics and Society.

Staying Positive
The Story of ‘The Real’ Paul Banke
Paul Banke and Paul Zanon
Foreword by Ray Mancini

A member of the USA’s stellar 1984 Olympic boxing team, Paul Banke then scaled the heights as a professional to become world champion in 1990. Unfortunately, throughout his career, he was at the mercy of his secret mistress—drugs. As part of the celebrity slipstream, Banke often had free access to heroin, crystal meth, and cocaine. Best remembered for his epic trilogy with Daniel Zaragoza, drugs overtook him and Banke soon became a forgotten champion. Shortly after retiring in 1993, he was homeless and destitute. Having not eaten for three days, Banke found himself lying in a dumpster in Vegas, ecstatic at finding a partially consumed cheeseburger. Arrested for grand theft auto in 1995, he was urged in jail to take an HIV test, due to sharing needles. He had contracted full-blown AIDS. Miraculously, after three decades of drug abuse, Banke turned his life around in September 2014 and became clean and sober. Now once again warmly embraced by the boxing fraternity, he shares his story to inspire and deter those on a similar path.

Paul Zanon is the author of six books, including The Looonliness of a Deep Sea Diver and The Yorkshire Hunter. Paul is a regular contributor to Boxing Monthly magazine, has covered the fight game for the Daily Sport, and has appeared as a boxing pundit on talkSPORT radio, London Live, and BoxNation. Ray Mancini held the WBA lightweight title from 1982 to 1984. He lives near Youngstown, Ohio.

Ruby’s Trust
Cy DeBoer

Ruby’s Trust is the true story of a woman who lost faith and then faith found her. A scowling woman and snarling terrier sat on a blanket by the curb of a busy street next to the church parking lot. The woman had two long gray-streaked braids twining down the sides of her weathered face. Her giant glasses were taped together in several places. She was wearing a tattered sweatshirt and pants, one shoe, one slipper, and weariness. Cy DeBoer, walking to her car after Bible study, approached the woman and asked, “What’s your name?” “My name is Ruby.” In Ruby’s Trust, Cy recounts the beginning of an unlikely friendship that changed two families forever. While sharing stories that are both humorous and heart-wrenching, Cy takes readers on an unforgettable journey, ultimately revealing a side of homelessness many people have never seen. More than anything, Ruby’s Trust is an endearing story of love and friendship that will enlarge your perspective—and your heart.

Cy DeBoer is an author, columnist, and inspirational speaker. She is also the founder of Bin Blessed, a charity that provides assistance to There with Care families in medical crises. She lives in Castle Rock with her husband, Bruce.

Full Immersion
A Memoir about Caregiving, Unconditional Love, and Finding a Life of My Own
Nancy Koenig

As a schoolteacher, devoted wife, and sister, Nancy plunged deeply into whatever life’s circumstances brought her way—even when that meant devoting much of her life to the needs of others. Still, life on her own terms began late, when she emerged in her forties from decades of care-giving and found herself with new freedom to pursue hobbies, interests, and relationships for the first time. In Full Immersion, Nancy celebrates the joys—and challenges—of care-giving, sharing what it’s like to leave behind years of being immersed in caring for others—and begin to explore the idea of caring for yourself.

Nancy Koenig retired from education after spending thirty-nine years teaching kindergarten through twelfth grade. She is well-versed on the joys and challenges of care-giving, having spent many decades caring for her mother and brother. Today Nancy is a newlywed of sixteen years, and lives with her husband, Denny, and two cats, Ginger and Dixie, in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Kurt Tucholsky
The Short Fat Berliner Who Tried to Stop a Catastrophe With a Typewriter

By Harold L. Poor

Introduction by Chris Poor

“Harold L. Poor’s study is one of the best of a large and growing crop.” —Gordon Craig, The New York Times

“The book does offer an introduction to a very important period and a witty, cosmopolitan, quite tragic man.” —Kirkus Reviews

Harold L. Poor’s biography of the iconic German Jewish author, journalist, satirist, playwright, and poet is the most important and thorough work on Kurt Tucholsky in the English-speaking world—a labor of love by the Rutgers history professor that is still unmatched. For this book, Poor has not only spent years of research in American Universities, he also visited Tucholsky’s widow Mary Gerold in her home in Germany, his family in tow, and unearthed materials, letters, and pictures that had previously been unpublished. This book is an entertaining and well-written gem that has finally been rediscovered.

Harold L. Poor studied German and European history at Columbia University. One of the most gifted and charismatic teachers in the History Department, Poor’s courses ranged widely over German and European history. He pioneered in the teaching of gay history with his course on “History and the Homosexual”. He was also the co-author of a music drama Tickles by Tucholsky, which was first produced at Brandeis University and then off Broadway at Theater Four. Belinda Davis is Professor of History at Rutgers University and Director of the Rutgers Center for European Studies. Her most recent book is The Inner Life of Politics: Extraparlamentary Opposition in West Germany, 1962-83. Chris Poor is the son of Harold L. Poor. He lives in Eugene, Oregon, where he works as an Employment Specialist.

Church of the Open Sky

Nat Young

What makes for a surfing life? With a blaze of groundbreaking performances and a list of titles claimed from all over the world to his name, Australian world champion surfer Nat Young might know. His seventieth birthday inspired some reflection on exactly that, and on the waves and characters that have marked his remarkable life—Miki Dora and Midget Farrelly to name a few. But surfing for Nat Young—and so many like-minded surfers—has never been about winning, never been about the sport. It’s a calling, an endless quest, a philosophy, a religion. Most of all, surfing is a way of life that has underpinned his other identities as board shaper, film producer, writer, raconteur, conservationist, activist, pilot, husband, and father. Candid and wryly observed, Church of the Open Sky explores what it means to be a surfer, with a collection of true stories of Nat’s surfing life—and the friends, foes, and heroes he’s met along the way.

Nat Young is a World Champion Australian surfer and author, who was named World Champion in 1966 and again in 1970. He is celebrated for pioneering the shortboard revolution in surfing. He has appeared in a number of surf movies, including the iconic Endless Summer, and produced two documentaries of his own. His books include Nat’s Nat and That’s That, The Complete History of Surfing, and Surfing Fundamentals. He divides his time between the North Coast of New South Wales and the Sun Valley in the US, and still enjoys paddling out to catch a wave every chance he gets.

Smile Because it Happened

A Guide to Living the Rest of Your Life

Carole Young and Stacey Reynolds

In 1995, as a young wife newly separated by many miles from her family in the Midwest, Stacey Reynolds began corresponding with her mother, Carole Young, by e-mail. These e-mails, along with letters, continued until 2012 and provide a very personal, often humorous, glimpse into the life of a self-described “mother of three beautiful children, wife, daughter, interior designer, crazy gardener, lifelong learner, martial artist and artist with a paint brush.” With her, we travel to the markets of Morocco and the rainforests of Costa Rica. We experience the precious “firsts” of motherhood, the ups and downs of family life, the rewards of gardening and living “green,” and the satisfaction of community service. Writing with simplicity and honesty, she also reveals lessons life has taught her and the philosophy she holds. When Stacey faces the greatest challenge of her life, she meets it with her trademark positive attitude and the courage of one who has earned a black belt in martial arts and zip-lined through the rainforest.

Carole Young is a retired art teacher and lives with her husband Gary and cat Sophie in a small town in the driftless area of SW Wisconsin. Stacey Reynolds works as an alternative energy consultant for Natural Dynamics and has volunteered her time at her children’s schools and her church. She lives in Elgin, Illinois.
Free to a Good Home
With Room for Improvement

Jules Torti

The German word zugunruhe translates as the “stirring before moving.” It’s used to describe birds and herds of animals, like wildebeests, before migration. Though Jules Torti is neither German nor a wildebeest, she understands this marrow-deep anxiousness all too well. Free to a Good Home is evidence of Torti’s lifelong commitment to feeling at home where it mattered most: within herself. At eighteen, with one thousand dollars in her bank account, she moved to the West Coast from Ontario to find “her people.” She headed specifically to Davie Street—that’s where all the gays were! Finding a girlfriend proved to be elusive, but she learned a lot of Pet Shop Boys lyrics and studied everything by Jane Rule and Chrystos for guidance. Torti continued searching the world for home. Whether prepping chimpanzees’ breakfast in the Congo, scavenging for her own breakfast in the dumpsters of Vancouver, or seeking a permanent address in Ontario’s unforgiving real estate market, Torti found that homesickness took up its own residence in her identity. While she longed for a home of bricks and mortar (or log or stone), she knew her greatest sense of home was to be found in a person, the missing her. At turns poignant, hilarious, and uncannily familiar, Free to a Good Home explores what it means to call a place home when life oddly mirrors a choose-your-own-adventure storybook.

Jules Torti’s work has been published in the Vancouver Sun, the Globe and Mail, Mabuhay, Coast Mountain Culture Magazine, Matador Network, Massage Therapy Canada, and Canadian Running. She contributes regularly to Realtor’s blog Living Room and is currently the editor in chief of Harrrowsmith magazine. Her first handsome paycheck was for a lesbian erotica story, published in The Mammoth Book of Erotica (Running Press, 2000). She now lives happily ever after with her partner on the forty-fifth parallel north, exactly half way between the equator and the North Pole, in Lion’s Head, Ontario.

Airhead
The Imperfect Art of Making News

Emily Maitlis

The things that are said on camera are only part of the story. Behind every interview there’s more. How the story came about. How it ended. The compromises that were made. The regrets, the rows, the deeply inappropriate comedy. Making news is an essential but imperfect art. It rarely goes according to plan. Emily Maitlis never expected to find herself wandering around the Maharani of Jaipur’s bedroom with Bill Clinton or get invited to the Miss USA beauty pageant by its owner, Donald Trump. She never expected to be thrown into a provincial Cuban jail, to drink red wine at Steve Bannon’s kitchen table, or spend three hours in a lift with Alan Partridge. She certainly didn’t expect the Dalai Lama to tell her the story of his most memorable poo. The beauty of television is its ability to simplify, but that’s also its weakness: it can distill everything down to one snapshot, one soundbite. Then the news cycle moves on. Airhead is Maitlis’ step back from the white noise. Before and after the camera started rolling, this is what really happened.

Emily Maitlis presents the BBC Flagship nightly current affairs show Newsnight and specializes in election coverage in the UK and the USA.

A Book of Moving Parts
Edd China

As you’ll discover in his incomparable memoir, the inventor, mechanic, TV presenter, and definition of the British eccentric Edd China sees things differently. An unstoppable enthusiast from an early age, Edd had thirty-five ongoing car projects while he was at university, not counting the double-decker bus he was living in. Now he’s a man with not only a runaround sofa, but also a road-legal office, shed, bed, and bathroom. His first car was a more conventional 1303 Texas yellow Beetle, the start of an ongoing love affair with VW, even though it got him arrested for attempted armed robbery. A human volcano of ideas and the ingenuity to make them happen, Edd is exhilarating company. Join him on his wild, wheeled adventures; see inside his engineering heroics; go behind the scenes on Wheeler Dealers. New Ground
A Memoir of Art and Activism in BC’s Interior
Ann Kujundzic

Foreword by Mary Schendlinger

New Ground: A Memoir of Art and Activism in BC’s Interior is the extraordinary memoir of a feminist, artist, and activist who fought for change no matter her circumstance. The Kootenay School of Art was the first of its kind in the region, but it only marked the beginning of what would become Kujundzic’s life-long journey to strengthen the artistic and political environment of BC. She and Zeljko established the Kelowna Art Centre, collaborated with George and Norma Ryga, joined the Voice of Women, lived and worked on a co-op farm, fought for women’s reproductive rights and social justice, and joined the Raging Grannies to fight against the military’s recruitment of the youth, all while juggling the roles inherent of motherhood. She traveled the world—often alone, with nothing but a phrase book to aid her—to places like Nunavut, Yugoslavia, Bethlehem, and Hong Kong. Honest, intelligent and brave, New Ground shares the life of a remarkable woman whose efforts in the political and artistic communities of BC are still being felt today.

Ann Kujundzic was born in 1929 in Dysart, Scotland. At age nineteen she married artist Zeljko Kujundzic and emigrated to Canada where they raised five children. Her involvement in establishing the Kootenay School of Art in Nelson, collaborations with the Ryga family in Summerland and ongoing activism give her a unique view of British Columbia’s cultural and political history. Mary Schendlinger is a senior editor at Geist and a writer. She lives in Vancouver, British Columbia.

DrawBridge
Drawing Alongside My Brother’s Schizophrenia

Joan Boxall
Illustrations by Stephen A. Corcoran

In an attempt to rekindle her relationship with her estranged brother Steve, who suffered with schizophrenia, Joan met him at the Art Studios in Vancouver. Schizophrenia had already done its worst, confounding Steve with voices, hallucinations, and delusions. At fifty-five, Steve was in a burn-out phase of schizophrenia with a hunger for creativity. Joan’s efforts to connect with him through art soon become the vehicle of change. Over the next eight years, Steve progressed both artistically and personally. Together, Steve and Joan explored their art and learned to trust one another. Steve’s artwork provides a glimpse into his perspective, at once troubled and beautiful. His paintings and drawings were eventually displayed in two solo exhibits at Basic Inquiry Gallery. He attended what would become his final solo show shortly before his death in 2013. DrawBridge: Drawing Alongside My Brother’s Schizophrenia offers a path of hope for those afflicted with mental illness and for their advocates.

Joan Boxall is a retired English teacher turned creative nonfiction writer. She contributes her nonfiction work regularly to Inspired 55+ Lifestyle Magazine. DrawBridge is her first book. She lives in North Vancouver with her husband. Born and raised in Vancouver, Stephen A. Corcoran trained at the Vancouver Art School in the 1970s (renamed Emily Carr University of Art + Design). His first solo exhibit was in February 2011 at Vancouver’s Basic Inquiry Gallery. His second exhibit was at the same venue in October 2013, shortly before his death.

Roughin’ it in Kanata, Eh!
Fresh Memories & Other Journeys

Michael J. Walsh

Welcome to Volume 2 of a personal memoir by Michael J. Walsh, which takes the reader from his early years in London, England after WWII to his departure in 1956 for a new life in Canada as a young teenager. Roughin’ in Kanata, eh! is the down to earth story of a life lived in two countries and the challenges that all outsiders experience. It is an honest description of the “new boy” in town trying desperately to be accepted in Windsor and London, Ontario. Readers will follow his teenage journey first at an all-boys school where the mantra, “Teach Me Goodness Discipline & Knowledge” frequently becomes a lesson at the end of a strap. It is the truthful, down to earth story of an English schoolboy, who learns that roughing it is its own reward when the outsider lives in the present but never forgets the people, places, and experiences that brought him here in 1956.

Michael J. Walsh is a retired professor from the Faculty of Animation, Arts & Design at Sheridan College in Oakville, ON for over 45 years. At the same time he has been actively involved in the book publishing industry in Canada, the United States and the UK since 1967. He founded Mosaic Press in the early 1970s.

Believe Build Become
How to Supercharge Your Career
Debbie Wosskow and Anna Jones

“We still need more women leaders—progress is being made, but we still have a long way to go. And that’s why Believe Build Become is so important.” —Arianna Huffington

“It is so important to instill these values in women. This knowledge is great power and will gift its reader the autonomy they need and deserve.” —Jameela Jamil, actress (The Good Place) and founding member of AllBright Los Angeles

Want to be your own boss? Or want to be THE boss? Start here. Believe Build Become is a hands-on manual designed to help any woman develop the skills and mindset she needs to become a successful leader. Based on the AllBright Academy courses created by entrepreneur Debbie Wosskow (OBE, Founder of Love Home Swap) and leading businesswoman Anna Jones (former CEO of Hearst), Believe Build Become offers a chapter-by-chapter system for readers to work through, focusing on the skills and confidence required to master the mindset of leadership. Debbie and Anna also reveal their own journeys to success—the gritty reality, the lessons learned and how they really got to the top. This is an inspirational, practical, and accessible guide to becoming the boss you want to be.

Debbie Wosskow, co-founder of AllBright, is the former CEO of Love Home Swap, a subscription-based home exchange business, which she sold for $53 million in 2017. She is a Member of the Mayor of London’s Business Advisory Board and sits on the Board of the Women’s Prize for Fiction. Anna Jones is a businesswoman and entrepreneur, and co-founder of AllBright. She served as CEO of Hearst Magazines UK until April 2017 where she transformed the business, growing audiences digitally and expanding into events, licensing, and brand services.

Authentic Power and Greatness
A Practical Guide to Living an Enlightened Life
Joseph Rodarick Law

Throughout recorded human history, many insightful teachers and philosophers have explored the topic of finding purpose and living a life filled with happiness. These ideals, insights of spiritual wisdom, and higher principles are valid, but most of them were written thousands of years ago. How can we practically integrate these ancient teachings into the complexities of our modern lives? In this groundbreaking book, Joseph Rodarick Law teaches the principles of happiness from a holistic perspective, one that includes fulfilling relationships, a rewarding career, spiritual growth, and finding one’s purpose in life. This collection of rare and insightful interviews gives you private access to the ideas, thoughts, and advice of some of the most respected thinkers in the world today, including Jack Canfield, co-author of Chicken Soup for the Soul; Dr. Edward de Bono, author of Six Thinking Hats; Marci Shimoff, happiness expert and author of Happy for No Reason; Dr. John Demartini, philosopher and author of Count Your Blessings; and many more.

Joseph Rodarick Law is the Chairman and CEO of J Rodarick Corporation as well as an author, speaker, and philanthropist. He has interviewed heads of state, billionaires, CEOs, bestselling authors, celebrities, Nobel prize Laureates, and people from all walks of life.

Success Freak
Kick Ass in Life in 7 Days
Bruno Gralpois

Are you ready to get insanely more out of life? Success is acquired, not inherited. Take control of your destiny and join the Success Freak seven-day challenge. Master seven essential skills and transform your life in only one week. Combining helpful exercises and set-by-steps activities, Success Freak is a self-help book by French-American Entrepreneur Bruno Gralpois that will show you how to unleash the amazing potential that, yes, already lies within you. You are about to become an unstoppable force of resolve and determination. Nothing short of the success (freak) you were always meant to be.

Bruno Gralpois has been instrumental in establishing Agency Management as a central global discipline for many of the top 200 advertisers, utilizing strategies for ensuring efficient collaboration and driving high-impact results for advertisers and their agency partners. His commitment to successful client/agency partnerships led Bruno to co-founding and serving as principal of Agency Mania Solutions. Before that, he held leadership positions at industry-leading companies like Microsoft and Visa as well as various pre-IPO software companies. His vast experience from both the client and the agency perspective has shaped this push for an industry-wide initiative, backed by industry associations such as the ANA and 4As, to improve understanding and practices in Agency Management. Bruno is an active member of the ANA Faculty of Marketing, facilitating training for the largest brand advertisers and their teams, and helping to build effective advertiser-agency relationships.

Recruiting in the Age of Googlization

When the Shift Hits Your Plan

2nd Edition

Ira S. Wolfe

In Recruiting in the Age of Googlization, Ira S Wolfe exposes the realities of automation on the future of jobs and the rapid reconstruction of the concept of work. Wolfe illuminates with his down-to-earth writing style how exponential change will transform or eliminate most jobs and make many business models irrelevant or unrecognizable. Wolfe’s examples read like science fiction jumping off the pages of everyday reality. His forecasts and solutions are simultaneously exciting and terrifying. It is within this new business environment that organizations must learn to recruit and retain talent. Whether you’re responsible for Human Resources or management or the average worker or student wondering what’s next for his or her career, Recruiting in the Age of Googlization is a thought provoking, compelling read. The book will inspire new ideas, spark pivotal conversations, and challenge existing assumptions about business and help lay out a game plan to make change work.

Ira S. Wolfe has emerged as one of HR’s most visionary thinkers in managing the convergence of the tired, the wired, and technology. Ira is a TEDx Speaker and President of Success Performance Solutions, a company that provides a portfolio of employee assessments as well as hiring and recruitment consulting. His first book The Perfect Labor Storm launched him onto the national stage which was followed by Geeks, Geezers, and Googlization. One Woman’s Journey to Grace
Dr. Sam Collins

Tuning into our intuition and greater purpose is the secret ingredient left out of many self-development and business books. This is not the usual book on success. It is a memoir about failure and how to thrive from it, about the power of doing business for social good, and about designing your own destiny rather than waiting for your parents, bosses, partners, or society to determine it for you.

Dr. Sam Collins has been named one of the ‘Top 200 Women to Impact Business & Industry’ by Her Majesty, The Queen of England. Sam founded Aspire in 2001, a globally sought-after organization that empowers women. Its pro-bono mentoring program works in 80 countries and has made a positive difference to the lives of over a million women. Sam is an active campaigner on the role of business in solving world issues, supporting families after suicide, the worldwide orphan crisis and empowering women as leaders in developing and emerging economies. Originally from the UK, Sam now lives in Southern California with her husband and two young sons and is in the process of adopting a young girl called Grace from the Democratic Republic of Congo.

Bluepoint Leadership Series

The Master Coach
Leading with Character, Building Connections, and Engaging in Extraordinary Conversations
Gregg Thompson

Today, coaching is recognized to be one of the most effective human resource development processes available, and it is becoming increasingly popular in organizations of all sizes. The Master Coach is written for these leaders, and is perfectly positioned to become the definitive book on the topic. Drawing on the wealth of experience that has made Gregg Thompson and Bluepoint Leadership Development the choice of numerous Fortune 100 companies, it illuminates the essence of what it takes to be a great coach. The Master Coach is based on the simple but profound 3Cs Coaching Model. This proven approach asserts that to master the art of coaching one must have an exemplary Character that invites the trust of others, be able to form rapid Connections with others at deeply personal level, and have the ability to initiate and guide intense, attitude-changing Conversations. At every step, Thompson reminds readers that coaching is not merely about what the coach says or does; it is about who he or she is.

Gregg Thompson is a leadership development facilitator, coach, author, and speaker with a passion for developing the greatness in individuals and organizations. He is the author of Unleashed! Expecting Greatness and Other Secrets of Coaching for Exceptional Performance and The Leadership Experience: From Individual Success to Organization Significance (co-author). He is the President of Bluepoint Leadership Development, a global force in the training, development and consulting arena.

Assiniboine Park
Designing and Developing a People’s Playground
David Spector
In 1904, Assiniboine Park was conceived as a people’s playground, a place devoid of commercial amusements where all classes of Winnipeggers could relax and rejuvenate in idyllic and Arcadian surroundings. The book traces the development of the park and its infrastructure—the layout of fields, forests and gardens, the two pavilions, the conservatories and the zoo—and how this corresponded with an ever-evolving Winnipeg. It explains the actions, conflicts, and arguments of a colorful cast of politicians and bureaucrats who made the park what it is today. The story of Assiniboine Park is told within the wider context of the evolution of urban parks in Canada and the United States.

David Spector is a retired Winnipeg-based historian and former Parks Canada research manager. He has published numerous articles and reports throughout his career, primarily focusing in the history of Western Canada. Having a life-long interest in the subject, he researched and wrote Assiniboine Park as a retirement pastime. He also leads hikes and historical walks for Nature Manitoba.

The Piping Guide
For the Design and Drafting of Industrial Piping Systems

Dennis J. Whistance and David R. Sherwood

From development of the initial requirements to final drawings used in construction, this authoritative reference for the design and drafting of industrial piping systems provides a step-by-step guide to piping design. Created as an in-depth resource for professionals, this piping bible is as valuable in the field as it is in the office or the classroom. Among the topics covered in this encyclopedic survey are techniques of piping design, the assembly of piping from components, processes for connecting piping to equipment, office organization, methods to translate concepts into finished designs, and terms and abbreviations concerned.

An expansive selection of charts and tables presents a wide array of information—frequently used data; factors for establishing pipeways width; spacing between pipes with and without flanges and for “jumpovers” and “runarounds;” principal dimensions and weights for key components; conversion for customary and metric units; direct-reading metric conversion tables for dimensions and data; and a metric supplement with principal dimensional data in millimeters—handily organized for quick reference.

Dennis J. Whistance was a chemical engineer for the HK Ferguson Company. David R. Sherwood is a former engineer for Imperial Chemical Industries for 18 years. He lives in Carmichael, California.

Mediterranean Lifestyle Cooking
The Key to a Healthy Life Through Simple and Delicious Cooking
Mary Valle

The Mediterranean plate is not only about the food but also about the lifestyle. The importance of this lifestyle is evident in the research into the longevity of the people who live in the Mediterranean and around the Aegean Sea. The enjoyment of a Mediterranean diet enriched by olive oil seems to be the key. It has often been referred to as the healthiest way to eat. It is rich in excellent olive oil, the best yogurt, whole grains, fish and seafood, sun-kissed seasonal fruits and vegetables, wild greens and bean dishes with every meal, and small portions of meat and cheeses. Mary Valle takes readers on a journey through the Mediterranean with an introduction into the use of olive oil and essential pantry items. Her style of cooking is seasonal, simple, healthy, and delicious.

Mary Valle’s love for Mediterranean food cooked by her parents inspired her to write down the memories and recipes to share with her own family. Mary’s passion for the food of her childhood is in every one of these classic recipes, handed down through generations and enlivened by her own modern twists. Mary often spends time in her family’s home village in Greece, where she learns new techniques and recipes to add to her kitchen.

Tasty Plant-Based Recipes for Every Day
Rachel Ama

Rachel Ama’s Vegan Eats offers brilliant plant-based dishes that make cooking and enjoying delicious vegan food every day genuinely easy—and fun. No bland or boring dishes, and forget all-day cooking. Rachel takes inspiration from naturally vegan dishes and cuisines as well as her Caribbean and West African roots to create great full-flavor recipes that are easy to make and will inspire you to make vegan food part of your daily life. Rachel’s recipes are quick and often one-pot; ingredients lists are short and supermarket friendly; dishes can be prepped ahead and, most importantly, she has included a song with each recipe so that you have a banging playlist to go alongside every plate of delicious food. Recipes include cinnamon french toast with strawberries, chickpea sweet potato falafel, peanut rice and veg stir-fry, caribbean fritters, a plantain burger, tabbouleh salad, and carrot cake waffles with cashew frosting. So if you share Rachel’s attitude that vegan food should fit into your life with ease and pleasure—whether you are a fully fledged vegan looking for new ideas, want to reduce your meat intake, make more environmentally friendly food choices, or just keen to eat more veg—Rachel’s genius cookbook is for you. All recipes in this book use metric measurements and UK cooking terms.

Rachel Ama launched her YouTube channel in 2017 and has amassed a legion of followers who are all hungry for her simple, affordable, and delicious vegan recipes and recommendations (and for her dance moves). A self-confessed KFC addict as a teenager, she decided to go vegan three years ago, aged twenty-three, and she hasn’t looked back. As her passion for plants grew and grew, so did her interest in cooking—and her belief that vegan food need not compromise on taste or nutrition.

Jamie’s Road
Cooking in a Crowded Life
Jamie McCourt

From the crispy crab cakes of her native Baltimore to the chicken soup her immigrant grandmother cooked every Sunday; from the Vietnamese-inspired dishes she fell in love with in a noisy kitchen in college to the buttery classics she mastered while studying cooking in Provence; Jamie shares the recipes that have shaped her life as she’s lingered over the table with family and friends, at home and around the world. Enlivened by the stunning photography of Deborah Jones, Jamie’s recipes and stories invite you into a world of thrilling flavors, great art, and the principle that has guided her along the road of life.

Jamie McCourt is the co-owner, president, and CEO of the Los Angeles Dodgers, where she transformed the team using numerous tools—not the least of which was food. As a visionary investor, she has helped grow dozens of companies, from urban farming to life sciences technology to medical biotech.

Integrative Nutrition
A Whole-Life Approach to Health and Happiness
Fifth edition
Joshua Rosenthal, MScEd

Foreword by Deepak Chopra

There is no one-size-fits-all diet. Fad diets all promise miraculous results for your outward appearance—yet people continue to eat poorly, gain weight, and depend on medications and operations to maintain their health. Learn the secrets of intuitive eating and start building a new relationship with your body. Integrative Nutrition is loaded with valuable insights into nutritional theories, simple ways to nurture your body and holistic approaches to maximize health. Integrative Nutrition offers a play-by-play for proper nutrition and personal growth, and is packed with delicious, easy-to-follow recipes. With Integrative Nutrition, readers will learn the truth about food corporations, pharmaceutical companies and obesity; weigh the strengths and weaknesses of popular diets and cleanses; discover why the body craves certain foods and the benefits of listening to those cravings; explore the connection between food, sexuality, spirituality, and work; release dependency on restaurant food, fast food, and processed food; and much more.

Joshua Rosenthal MScEd is a highly sensitive healer with a Master’s of Science in Education and thirty years in the fields of whole foods, personal coaching, and teaching. He is the founder of the Institute for Integrative Nutrition, an online higher education school where students are trained as Health Coaches and receive holistic nutrition education and business skills, which grew from a small classroom of passionate individuals to a global community of over 100,000 students from more than 155 countries. His revolutionary approach introduces a wide variety of dietary theories and affirms that the food on your plate is secondary to healthy relationships, regular physical activity, a fulfilling career, and a spiritual practice. Deepak Chopra is a public speaker and one of the best known figures in alternative medicine. He is the author of 80 books including The Seven Spiritual Laws of Success.
Living a Healthy Life with Chronic Conditions

Natural Birth in a Nutshell
The No Frills Guide to Pregnancy and Birth
Caroline Richards and Katrina Caslake

Tapping the author’s own experience, the expert advice of her own midwife, and stories from other women who have given birth naturally, Natural Birth in a Nutshell encourages mothers to explore their options and offers advice on how to prepare oneself mentally, physically, and emotionally to have a natural birth. This book empowers mothers to take control of the birth experience and inspires them towards a natural and wonderful birth.

Caroline Richards practiced as a social worker for ten years, working with children and families in both the state and voluntary sectors, teaching the social work module at Lambeth College, and training social workers on placement. The journey of motherhood has inspired her to write, and she has had articles published in Juno Magazine and elsewhere relating to motherhood and birth. She is a Spiritual Wellness Coach for mothers, helping them to feel calm, joyful, and powerful through online programs and private coaching. Katrina Caslake is an independent midwife with her own practice. She lives in England.

Desire
2nd Edition
Dr. Saida Désilets

Desire has a bad reputation, yet still remains a titillating subject. Currently, most books on desire either focus on the latest research in the field of human desire or are more erotic and explicit in their orientation. This polarized view on desire is also reflected within the greater collective of our society with the recent rise of the #MeToo movement and the outing of influential leaders. The time is ripe for the introduction of a new paradigm for desire. In this book, the author compares the impact of socially mandated desires on our living experience of fulfillment (or lack thereof) with the igniting and guiding force of our true desires. As such, the author regards desire as an emerging, evolutionary force in our lives—to be both harnessed and trusted as our own unique compass.

Dr. Saida Désilets is a thought-leader and body-philosopher who wants to live in a world filled with audacious, sexually sovereign women living life on their own terms. She is the author of The Emergence of the Sensual Woman and The Illustrious Jade Egg.
What Happened to Moderation?
A Common-Sense Approach to Improving Our Health and Treating Common Illnesses in an Age of Extremes

Stephen C. Brewer, MD, ABFM

We live in a world of extremes in our politics and media. This lack of moderation is often displayed in our choice of health routines. “Experts” advocate dietary regimens in a mind-boggling array of vegetarian, gluten-free, dairy-free, and more unusual options, and we are bombarded by ads for medicines and dietary supplements. As a result, millions consume unregulated, untested products hoping for a magical cure. We also follow the latest trends in exercising. Extreme workouts are the rage, and fitness is no longer about getting healthy; it’s more about being super-human. As a veteran family medicine physician and the Medical Director at the Canyon Ranch Wellness Resorts in Tucson, Arizona, Dr. Stephen Brewer has a wealth of experience, and his aim is to challenge our thinking about what is best for our health.

Whatever Happened to Moderation? makes the case that a healthy lifestyle does not need to be an arduous endeavor, and common-sense solutions to health problems are often the best approach. This is a welcome guide for good living that’s suitable for men and women of all ages.

Stephen C. Brewer, MD, ABFM, is the Medical Director at Canyon Ranch Wellness Resorts in Tucson, Arizona. He was an associate fellow in the Integrative Medicine Program at the University of Arizona where he studied under the direction of Dr. Andrew Weil. He was trained and certified in acupuncture at UCLA and is certified in guided imagery. His areas of special expertise include family medicine, integrative medicine, medical acupuncture, fibromyalgia, central sensitization, preventative medicine, and men’s health. Dr. Brewer is the author of The Canyon Ranch Guide to Men’s Health and coauthor of The Everest Principle: How to Achieve the Summit of Your Life.
Generation Exercise
How to Raise Active, Healthy Children
Len Saunders, MA and Dr. Suzanne Schneiderman

With an increase in diabetes, asthma, hypertension, lower life expectancy, and other diseases correlated to a rise in childhood obesity and sedentary lifestyles, it is more important than ever for adults to model and children to learn healthy habits. Regular exercise provides the strength, stamina, coordination, and flexibility that leads to happier, healthier, and longer lives. It helps reduce stress, improves self-image, and enhances performance—and physical fitness also teaches perseverance and sportsmanship, life lessons that are valuable whether you are five or ninety-five. Indeed, the health and wellness of every age group is enhanced if we are all part of Generation Exercise.

Len Saunders, MA is an award-winning author and motivational speaker in the fight against childhood obesity. He has appeared on CNN, Good Morning America, The Today Show, ESPN, Nickelodeon, as well as the front page of The Wall Street Journal. He has served as a consultant to the President’s Council on Fitness, Sports, and Nutrition as well as a spokesperson for the American Heart Association. Len is best known for creating Project ACES, an event in which millions of school children worldwide exercise simultaneously in May each year. Dr. Suzanne Schneiderman has been a practicing occupational therapist for more than twenty years. Currently, she is working with children in public schools, home, and community settings.

The Daily Better
365 Reasons for Optimism

Henry Edwards

In The Daily Better, educator and author Henry Edwards takes readers on a tour of the bright side of the news. The upshot? The world has never been better. Skeptical? So was Henry, until he dove into the data and discovered that we do indeed live longer, healthier lives with better education and healthcare. Poverty, violence, and war are all in decline. Most people don’t believe this. That’s why he wrote The Daily Better. But changing your worldview takes time. That’s why The Daily Better gives readers a daily dose of evidence that the world is getting better. For every day of the year there’s a story about human progress, resilience, and ingenuity. Through these daily vignettes readers enjoy inspiring stories, reflect on positive changes in the world, and slowly change their worldview to include all the positives, all the progress, that makes the lives of many people so much better.

Henry Edwards blogs about human progress and flourishing at gettingbetterblog.com and is a writer for Ben Franklin Circle groups. He also contributes to Positive Psychology News. Henry is an assistant instructor at the University of Pennsylvania’s Master of Applied Positive Psychology program and teaches positive psychology, social sciences, and humanities at The New School of Northern Virginia.

Don’t Be Just Another Brick in the Wall

Dirrick Williams

At some point every person is offered by God, the universe, higher consciousness, or by life itself, to choose how they will live their life. Will we live by the norms and expectations of the world surrounding us, or will we live by the untested knowing and guidance of the world within us? Don’t Be Just Another Brick in The Wall is not a book written to answer personal questions, but a dynamic source revealing challenging perspectives buffering the path you take as you come to recognize your answer. This book is short, compact, precise, enlightening, encouraging, and challenging.

Dirrick Williams is a licensed and ordained minister, a certified Life Coach, and the host of Radio Talk Show “Principle Living,” and co-Host of “Men-Talk-Love.” He is the author of Principle Living.

Unlearning Anxiety & Depression
The 4-Step Self-Coaching Program to Reclaim Your Life
Joseph J. Luciani, Ph.D.

What if everything you thought you knew about anxiety and depression was wrong? What if, instead of mental illnesses or emotional disorders, anxiety and depression are simply habits? You already know about habits—habits are learned and habits can be broken or “unlearned.” This idea may surprise you, but the truth about anxiety and depression isn’t complicated. This book will teach you to unlearn your habits of anxiety and depression—and then coach yourself to do it! Dr. Joseph Luciani presents his proven self-coaching approach that has worked wonders for his patients as well as thousands of readers worldwide. Using a powerful, four-step mind-talk strategy, Unlearning Anxiety & Depression combines the science of neuroplasticity with cognitive behavioral psychology and motivational coaching so you can self-coach back to health. Self-Coaching is all about insight and action. You’ll learn to: stop worrying, anticipating, and controlling life; start living more spontaneously from a place of self-trust; separate facts from insecurity-driven emotional fictions; and develop critical awareness of your inner neurotic dialogue.

Joseph J. Luciani, Ph.D., is the author of the internationally bestselling Self-Coaching series, which has now been translated into ten languages. As a frequent lecturer and guest speaker on TV and radio, he has brought his message of hope to millions over the years. Dr. Luciani, a clinical psychologist, has been in general private practice for more than forty years.

The Best Revenge Series

Emerge
The Opening of the Human Heart to the Power of Love
Susan M. Omilian JD

This compelling story, based on true events, is written from the victim’s point of view and depicts how manipulation, intimidation, and cruelty of violence against women can be devastating and lasting. This is the second in the three-book, national award-winning The Best Revenge Series. Ten years after the murder of her friend Lacey Lockhart, Lisette LaTour revisits the college town where Lacey was shot and killed by her ex-boyfriend, Ari. Surprised by the changes in the campus and how well Lacey's friends are doing, Lisette feels lost in her own life. No longer dancing under the name of Attila the Hunny and adrift as to her career goals, she longs to connect with something bigger and deeper in her life. But when Ambrose, the angry, homeless man from a decade ago, finds her and proposes a scheme, she senses danger. Yet she can’t help wanting to open up to feelings she hasn’t experienced since her mother Marie’s death when she was a child. Can Lisette risk everything to find the unconditional love she has always wanted or is that too much to ask? This inspirational story shows how anyone can triumph if they have forgiveness, courage, and strength.

Susan M. Omilian JD, is an attorney and women’s rights advocate. She has helped hundreds of women on their journey from victim to survivor to thriver for the past four decades. She is the author of Awaken and Entering the Thriver Zone. She lives in West Hartford, Connecticut.

Love Letters to a Stripper
Reclaiming Your True Power
Angelina Lombardo

Making the decision to transition away from the sex industry is a hell of a lot more involved than just making a simple career change. You’ll be considering the way you interact with others and the way people perceive you. You’ll confront the shame and stigma that has been projected upon you and you’ll need to face the natural fears about people finding out about your past. You’ve made countless compromises, dealt with challenging clients, co-workers, and bosses. In Love Letters to a Stripper, Angelina will help readers discover the tools to avoid that rebound back to the familiar, gain the confidence to make the change, block fear from sabotaging you, and support an enlightened awareness of mind, body, and spirit.

Angelina Lombardo is a former stripper of 8 years who now devotes her time and career to coaching the underserved and stigmatized sex industry community on everything from self-love and empowerment, to finances and self-care practices. Her mission is to change the sex industry norms, make these issues and conversations more mainstream and teach people about the industry’s truths and illusions. This is her first book.

Peace Is Possible
Thoughts on Happiness, Success and Relationships for a Deeper Understanding of Life
Prem Rawat

Global peace ambassador Prem Rawat has spent his entire life travelling the world to deliver one timeless message: Peace is Possible. Conflict, he explains, takes place at three levels: between countries, between people, and finally within each of us as individuals. These levels are all interconnected. Hence the conflict that rages within a person will lead them to seek out conflict with another. Similarly, conflict between people of one nation is likely to result in conflict between many nations. So the first step to world peace is a simple one: we must first find peace within ourselves. Peace is Possible draws together age-old stories which, as they have been passed down over generations, inspired and transformed the lives of millions. From the power of adaptability, to the importance of trust, to the sticking-place of courage, these are the messages that will change the world. For good.

Prem Rawat has addressed live audiences of over 15 million people in more than 250 cities across all continents. He is regularly invited to speak at prestigious events around the world, including the European Parliament, the House of Commons, the Royal Albert Hall, Wembley Stadium and Kensington Palace as part of Queen Elizabeth II’s Diamond Jubilee celebration. He is the fourth recipient of the Brand Laureate Lifetime Achievement award; previous recipients include Nelson Mandela and Hilary Clinton. Peace Is Possible is his first book for adults and has been translated into 9 languages.

The Mango Girl
A Woman’s Journey of Perseverance and Survival
Second Edition

Dr. Ava Eagle Brown

Foreword by Darieth Chisolm

Abused by her father, deemed unworthy of the love of her mother, ashamed of her upbringing, living in an environment that few survive, and nowhere to turn but within, “The Mango Girl” determined her life wasn’t going to end the way it began. From a young age, Dr. Ava Brown learned the lessons of perseverance and survival. The Mango Girl is the courageous story of growing up in one of the poorest areas of Jamaica. Determination and courage gave rise to Ava’s belief that she was destined for more than her community could offer. The expected and ingrained recreational activities of sex, raising babies, and going to the farm were not enough for this young girl. She forged a very different path than the one expected of her. Her adolescent years were dominated by the dark shadows of incest, homelessness, violence, and sexual abuse. Ava’s life took an entirely different path when she was held and raped at gunpoint in front of her 3-year-old daughter which finally pushed her to flee her home country to save her sanity. Resilience and love for her native country allowed Ava to see all her harsh and disappointing experiences as mere stepping stones to becoming a strong and self-reliant woman.

Raised in Jamaica, Dr. Ava Eagle Brown rose from the streets of poverty to become a multi-award winning International Speaker, Author and Transformation mindset business coach. Ava coaches, trains and speaks globally to help others shift their mindsets to change their lives and businesses, ultimately affecting their bottom-line. Her clients include Citibank Group, HSBC, Barbados Investment & Development, London Borough and many others. She has been featured in London Live, Huffington Post, The BBC, The Voice Newspaper, The Sunday Mirror, The Financial Times, The BookSellers, The Financial Times, and many others.

Kristin Todd

In Kristin’s work as a personal stylist, it upset her to learn 90% of the women she worked with didn’t like the reflection they saw in the mirror. They started their day, every day, feeling negative about themselves. Women are trying desperately to keep up with the digitally edited women they see in social media. Kristin could see first hand the popularity of women desiring help with their wardrobe, however most women felt booking a personal style session is a luxury not a necessity. A style session should be more accessible to everyday women. Style Sessions aims to change the way women feel about themselves, because happiness and confidence are key. It is important to embrace the best version of yourself and present it to the world every day.

Kristin Todd is a fashion stylist who has worked in the fashion industry and dressing women for over 10 years. Kristin’s career has stretched across a broad spectrum of women’s dressing needs and building wardrobes to align with individual body types, lifestyles and tastes. Kristin also has expertise in understanding garment fit and construction. Her combination of skills is unique. Kristin wishes to use her knowledge to make dressing enjoyable and most importantly accessible to all women.

Meaning Maker
Secrets to the Heart-Mind Connection
Cinthia McFeature, Ph.D.

This book, Meaning Maker, provides proven techniques to sustain our heart-focus as we make sense of our lived experiences and our life story. The reader will have an opportunity to understand the importance of balance (physical, mental, spiritual, and emotional) from a health consciousness perspective. Each person is unique and therefore their healing journey is different based on their life story. Through a process of self-assessment and thematic analysis of your “lived experiences,” you can see clearly a path towards balance. Making sense of your life story will help you to release personal stress, confusion, and at times feelings of hopelessness.

Cinthia McFeature, Ph.D., is a therapist, social worker, and consultant for private schools, social service agencies, adult and juvenile probation service, and private practice. She has served in the social work and counseling fields working directly with clientele, providing individual, family, and group therapy while utilizing narrative and psychospiritual treatments. She is the co-author of the book HeartPath Practitioner.

Unstuck
Move From Powerless to Empowered in Your Relationships
Charlene Benson

Are you stuck in a relationship ditch? It’s no secret that opposites attract. Unfortunately, a polarizing effect can take place, creating even greater behavioral extremes and driving people farther apart. This is true in marriages and in other relationships as well. Finding yourself in a polarized relationship—for the first or umpteenth time—can leave you feeling frustrated and powerless. The good news is that you can get unstuck. Relationship coach Charlene Benson shows you how to experience change and momentum by helping you: learn why you feel stuck in default behaviors you can’t seem to change, ditch old patterns and embrace a healthier way of loving and experiencing love, practice 4 pathways that will help you negotiate win-win solutions, and replace toxic subconscious reactions with intentional effective responses. You’re not as powerless as you think. With the right roadmap, you can get to where you long to be. Let Charlene Benson show you how to get out of the ditch once and for all, and start traveling in the right direction with the people you love.

Charlene Benson has a private counseling practice in Westminster, Colorado, where she specializes in relationships, trauma, and addictions. She has been using this model for the last 10 years, helping people identify and address extreme behavior in themselves and others, and find new freedom and balance.

Killing Kate
A Story of Turning Abuse and Tragedy into Transformation and Triumph
Kate Ranta and Alisa Divine
Foreword by Evan Rachel Wood

A burning question around domestic violence is, “Why doesn’t she just leave?” Killing Kate reads like a real-life horror-thriller of what happened when one woman did “just leave”. Follow the crazy signs and red flags the husband showed and the tragedy that pursued. This book is a cautionary tale and a rallying cry for women to support each other. Kate’s story is an essential read in the fight against domestic and gun violence.

Kate Ranta is an author, speaker and a marketing professional. She is a survivor of domestic violence and gun violence. She has been a gun control activist for several years, has appeared in documentary films, in national media, and on expert panels. Alisa Divine is an author, speaker, and a life coach. She is also co-owner of Personal Power Press. She is the author of #SheWins: Harrowing Stories From Women Who Survived Domestic Abuse.

Hope Lives

Tim Kuck and Marie Kuck

This book offers hope and encouragement for the reader with a special needs child. There is a struggle with guilt, fear, disappointment, anger, depression, anxiety, panic—a host of emotions. This book, written by a family that had a child with very special needs, will offer the reader the space to breathe, to be assured that it will be ok, they can make it, they are not alone, and there is not only hope but even joy that can be found in the midst of the sadness and pain. Through their personal experience with their son, the Kucks saw first-hand how demanding it can be to raise a child with special needs. Despite spending the next four and a half years in hospitals, with Nathaniel undergoing surgeries, therapies and many challenges, the Kucks were able to see that to each life there is value and purpose. Although the Kucks lost their son, they are committed to helping other families to care for their VIP Kids and educating communities about how these families can be Buddies.

Tim and Marie Kuck co-founded the national nonprofit, Nathaniel’s Hope, with the goal of celebrating kids with all types of special needs (VIP kids) while supporting and advocating for these families. Nathaniel’s Hope educates and equips local communities and churches through multiple outreach initiatives. Its national Buddy Break network provides free respite care to give families of VIP kids a break.

GOLDEN BRICK ROAD PUBLISHING HOUSE AVAILABLE
Haunted Manitoba
Ghost Stories from the Prairies
Matthew Komus

Manitoba may seem like a quiet province, but its prairies teem with paranormal activity. A ghostly groundskeeper still does his rounds at the Delta Marsh Field Station; strange noises and apparitions of children in 19th-century clothing have been reported at Lower Fort Garry; and Mrs. Kennedy still welcomes guests to Captain Kennedy’s House—just as she did when her home was built in 1866. Haunted Manitoba shares eerie stories from all corners of the province and places them in the context of Manitoba’s rich history.

Matthew Komus has developed programs and exhibits for many different museums and heritage sites in Manitoba. Topics covered include everything from hockey and haunted buildings (very popular), to modernist architecture and composting toilets (not as popular). Though he has written articles, tours and booklets, this is his first full length book. He also operates Winnipeg Ghost Walk, the city’s first walking tour on haunted buildings.

Disassembled
A Native Son on Janesville and General Motors – a Story of Grit, Race, Gender and Wishful Thinking and What it Means for America
Tim Cullen

There have been many articles and even books written on what happened after General Motors closed its plant in Janesville, Wisconsin in 2008 after some 90 years of operation. Here, for the first time, former Wisconsin state senator – and Janesville native – Tim Cullen tells the inside story of how and why it happened, and what it means for the future not only of Janesville, but cities across America. Cullen, who co-chaired the governor’s task force that tried to save the Janesville plant, provides a sweeping history of the plant from its boom years to the abyss, while noting the struggles African Americans and women faced in getting hired and treated fairly. Along the way he finds some heroes, including an early African American GM employee; a woman who insisted on gender equity in the plant; and Walter Reuther, the legendary labor leader. Perhaps no one is better qualified than Tim Cullen to tell this important story. Cullen worked in the Janesville GM plant as a college student and he was there, decades on, when presidential candidate Barack Obama told a hopeful gathering of GM employees and other stakeholders he would do what he could to ensure its success. Less than a year later, the plant closed. In Disassembled, Tim Cullen reveals what happened.

Tim Cullen spends his time working with the Janesville Multicultural Teachers Opportunity Fund. He is a former Majority Leader of the Wisconsin Senate. He lives in Janesville, Wisconsin.
The Killing of Uncle Sam
The Demise of the United States of America
Rodney Howard-Browne and Paul L. Williams

Pride, greed, and power have driven men to do the unthinkable—including selling out their nations and unsuspected citizens to the most corrupt and destructive “invisible” global leaders on Earth. But how did this happen on American soil? How did the downfall begin and who were the predators that the “land of the free and home of the brave” fell victim to? And is all hope lost? This book captures details of the last 200 years of American history that mainstream media does not want you to know. It dissects the “legalized” system of the private central banks that has gone unchecked, and delivers gut-wrenching truths about the real domestic and foreign enemies of the United States. With over 1000 footnotes and quotes from former presidents, prime ministers, and state officials, it will equip you with the facts that the elites have covered up for centuries and empower you to stand up for the truth.

Rodney Howard-Browne is one of the founders of Revival Ministries International, The River at Tampa Bay Church, and River Bible Institute. He along with his wife, Adonica, hosts the annual Celebrate America DC event at the Daughters of the American Revolution Constitution Hall and other outreach activities. In July 2017, he was invited to the White House and was asked to pray for President Donald Trump. Following his visit, Dr. Rodney launched a 24/7-prayer initiative for the President and the nation. Today, his influence continues to expand. He has over 4,455,706 views on YouTube, a Facebook following of over 152,700 with weekly posts reaching close to 3 million, and over 45,500 followers on Twitter and Instagram combined. His Great Awakening Broadcast airs six nights a week on CTN to an estimated audience of over 70 million households. Paul L. Williams is a journalist and the author of 15 books, including Among the Ruins: The Decline and Fall of the Roman Catholic Church, Crescent Moon Rising: The Islamic Transformation of America, The Unholy Alliance between the Vatican, the CIA, and the Mafia, which is being made into a movie series for AMC Network. He is the winner of three first-place Keystone Press Awards and has written articles for major news outlets, including USA Today, The Wall Street Journal, NewsMax, The Counter-Terrorist, and National Review. He holds a Ph.D. in philosophical theology from Drew University and has served as a consultant on organized crime and international terrorism for the FBI, and an adjunct professor of theology, humanities, and philosophy.
The Case Against Single Payer
How ‘Medicare for All’ Will Wreck America’s Health Care System—And Its Economy
Chris Jacobs

“Chris Jacobs does a great job of breaking down complex policies into plain language accessible to all Americans.”
—Newt Gingrich

Long thought of as an idealistic but unrealistic proposition promoted by far-left activists, single-payer health care has become a major discussion point across the political landscape. Surprisingly, however, few books have examined the impact of a single-payer health care system in depth—and most of those that have done so come from a leftist perspective supporting this dramatic change. This vacuum in the current literature cries out for a work making the case against single payer—one which educates the American people about the damaging effects of this proposed health care takeover. Written for a broad audience ranging from interested citizens to leaders in the conservative movement, The Case Against Single Payer will explain the harmful implications of giving the federal government unfettered control of the health care system.

Chris Jacobs, the Founder and CEO of Juniper Research Group, has spent more than 15 years studying health care on and off Capitol Hill. He has analyzed health policy and legislation for some of the leading lights of the conservative movement, and while working for the House Republican Conference under then-Chairman Mike Pence, he helped lead the messaging against Obamacare in the run up to the law’s passage. He serves as a Senior Contributor to The Federalist.

Getting Trump
How the Media is Hurting Itself Chasing The Donald
Charles Davies

Since he decided to run for President, Donald Trump has dominated the news cycle. He has obviously been used to media attention, and used to enjoy a good relationship with some journalists and reporters from his time on “The Apprentice,” and prior to this with his business dealings. However, the mood changed when he decided to run for President, with all of the mainstream media and public figures insisting he would never win. His campaign was seen as a joke and, at every turn, the media were waiting for his run to come to an end. When he became the GOP nominee, it became more of a reality that he would enter The White House, and the media went into full attack, seemingly obsessed with trying to prevent this at all costs. The media has been completely captivated with him, covering his tweets, and every odd remark. He also knew how to use this to his advantage, as any publicity is good publicity. In spite of their incessant negative coverage, he managed to win the election. So, then they turned their attention to trying to bring him down and, at the time of writing, there seems to be no let up from this onslaught.

Charles Davies started his career in journalism over 25 years ago in Freetown, Sierra Leone, West Africa. He has edited newspapers and magazines including Africa Analysis and New Africa Analysis in the UK. He is a member of the British Labour Party. He lives in London.
Beyond State, Power, and Violence
Abdullah Öcalan
Foreword by Andrej Grubacic

After the dissolution of the PKK (Kurdistan Workers’ Party) in 2002, internal discussions ran high, and fear and uncertainty about the future of the Kurdish freedom movement threatened to unravel the gains of decades of organizing and armed struggle. From his prison cell, Abdullah Öcalan intervened by penning his most influential work to date: Beyond State, Power, and Violence. With a stunning vision of a freedom movement centered on women’s liberation, democracy, and ecology, Öcalan helped reinvigorate the Kurdish freedom movement by providing a revolutionary path forward with what is undoubtedly the furthest-reaching definition of democracy the world has ever seen. Here, for the first time, is the highly anticipated English translation of this monumental work.

Abdullah Öcalan actively led the Kurdish liberation struggle as the head of the PKK from its foundation in 1978 until his abduction in February 1999. He is regarded as a leading strategist and the most important political representative of the Kurdish freedom movement. Andrej Grubacic is the founding chair of the Anthropology and Social Change Department at the California Institute of Integral Studies–San Francisco and coauthor of Wobblies and Zapatistas: Conversations on Anarchism, Marxism and Radical History.

Scotland, the UK and Brexit
A Guide to the Future
Edited by Gerry Hassan and Russell Gunson

In this collection of essays from a wide range of leading political specialists, journalists and academics, Hassan and Gunson have assembled a comprehensive guide to Brexit for the UK as a whole, and its constituent parts. From fisheries and agriculture to higher education and law, the whys and how of Brexit are challenged from all angles. Particular attention is paid to how Brexit will impact Scotland and the viability of a future independent Scotland.

Gerry Hassan is a writer, commentator, political analyst, and a regular contributor to The Scotsman, Newsnight Scotland, Good Morning Scotland, and Open Democracy. He works as a lecturer in cultural policy at the University of the West of Scotland. Russell Gunson is the Director of the Institute for Public Policy Research in Scotland. Before assuming this position, he worked across government, parliament and the voluntary and private sectors.

Taking Back Control in Turbulent Times
Henry McLeish

The future of Scotland is at a crossroads as Brexit creates more complexity and confusion. The SNP has lost momentum and a window of opportunity has emerged for a wider and deeper debate about the current political situation both in Scotland and the UK. This book examines the most pressing issues facing us today in the context of the political and constitutional upheaval that is coursing throughout Western democracies. The shock politics of Trump and Brexit demonstrate that the political landscape has changed and we face an uncertain future. Henry McLeish offers a new approach to get us out of the mess we’re in.

Henry McLeish began his political career in local government in 1974, and was leader of Fife Regional Council for five years. He was elected as an MP in 1987 and became Minister for Devolution and Home Affairs from 1997 to 1999. In the first Scottish Parliament he was Minister for Enterprise and Lifelong Learning from 1999, and in 2000 he became First Minister of Scotland until 2001. Resigning from politics in 2003, he is now an adviser and lectures internationally on a variety of topics. He frequently appears on TV and radio, and is interviewed for various newspapers and magazines.

A Nation Changed?
The SNP and Scotland Ten Years On
Gerry Hassan and Simon Barrow

A Nation Changed? provides the first detailed and wide-ranging analysis of the SNP in office. It looks at how Scotland has changed and not changed during that time, and the challenges that lie ahead. The book examines the SNP’s record, its role as a government and as a party, detailed policy issues such as education and health, and the Brexit conundrum and independence. Offering insights and suggestions for further action and reform, A Nation Changed? brings together an unparalleled range of knowledgeable and expert voices all of whom care deeply about Scotland, public policy, the state of democracy, and the future of our nation. This groundbreaking study offers fresh thinking, food for thought, and ideas for debate concerning the changing terrain of Scottish politics.

Gerry Hassan is a writer, commentator, political analyst, and a regular contributor to The Scotsman, Newsnight Scotland, Good Morning Scotland, and Open Democracy. He works as a lecturer in cultural policy at the University of the West of Scotland. Simon Barrow is co-director of Ekkleisa and a practical theologian, commentator, journalist, NGO consultant, adult educator and trainer.
A Basic Income Handbook

Annie Miller

The current social security system is unwieldy, complex, unjust and unfit for purpose. If we were designing a system now from scratch for the 21st century, we would not end up with our present system. It is a Gordian Knot that cannot be unravelled or reformed. It must be cut through and replaced by a system fit for the 21st century. Basic Income is just such a system. It redefines the relationship between the state, society and the individual. This innovative book provides a new perspective on Basic Income—a regular, unconditional payment to every citizen resident in the country. This comprehensive book has been rigorously researched and thus will appeal to academics and policy-makers, as well as to the general reader who is concerned about the current state of social security in the UK. Find out how Basic Income can make a difference to your life.

Annie Miller spent the major part of her working life in the Department of Economics at Heriot-Watt University in Edinburgh teaching mainly business economics, econometrics, mathematics and statistics for economists. She is chair and co-founder of the Basic Income Research Group (BIRG), which changed its name in 1993 to the Citizen’s Income Trust (CIT). She has also set up a sister organization in Scotland, the Citizen’s Basic Income Network Scotland.

A Year at the Circus

Inside Trump’s White House

Jon Sopel

Welcome to the White House. At the heart of Washington, there is a circus. It’s raucous, noisy and full of clowns. Reporting on it is a daily cacophony. Four major stories can blow up and blow out before breakfast, and political weather systems are moving at warp speed. The one thing absent from the weather forecast is the tranquil eye of the storm. That we never see. In A Year at the Circus: Inside Trump’s White House, BBC North America Editor Jon Sopel takes you inside Trump’s West Wing and explores the impact this presidency has had on the most iconic of American institutions. Each chapter starts inside a famous Washington room, uncovering its history and its new resonance in the Trump era. You are invited to step inside the Oval Office where Trump called for loyalty from FBI Director James Comey, and experience life as a reporter in the Briefing Room, where the tense relationship between the media and the President is played out. Guiding you through these rooms, Jon reveals the inner workings of the Trump White House and details the key moments and conversations that have unfolded within its walls. From Kim Jong-un and Kavanaugh to Merkel and the Mueller Inquiry—this is your insider guide to the Washington Circus. Roll up, roll up.

Jon Sopel has been the BBC’s North America Editor since 2014. He has covered the 2016 election and Trump’s White House at first hand, reporting for the BBC across TV, radio, and online. As a member of the White House Press Corps, he has accompanied both President Obama and President Trump on Air Force One and interviewed President Obama at the White House. He has traveled extensively across the US and recently rode a Harley Davidson down the West Coast (that wasn’t for work though). He lives in Washington and London. He is the author of the If Only They Didn’t Speak English: Notes from Trump’s America.

The Full Vermonty
Vermont in the Age of Trump
2nd Edition
Bill Mares and Jeff Danziger

Vermont towns may be small, but (unlike Trump’s hands) they are not clenched in anger. Rather, they are resisting with characteristic wit and charm, with town meetings and grassroots organizing. In The Full Vermonty: Vermont in the Age of Trump, Second Edition, edited by Bill Mares and Jeff Danziger, some of Vermont’s most famous voices ask, “What the hell do we do now that Trump is causing a rukus?” The collection of essays, published by Green Writers Press in Brattleboro, Vermont, explores how Vermont—a small, rural state with a progressive history—must reckon with what it means to exist in Trump’s America. But The Full Vermonty, Second Edition isn’t just for Vermont readers—it is for anyone wondering how to resist, persevere, and remain hopeful in the age of Trump. Expanded to include updated essays and a new cover cartoon by nationally syndicated cartoonist Danziger, the Second Edition is bound to wake up the entire nation.

Bill Mares has been a backyard beekeeper for over 45 years. Raised in Texas, educated at Harvard, Mares is a former journalist, state representative and high school teacher. Mares has authored or co-authored 17 books on a range of topics, including Bees Besieged. He is the former president of the Vermont Beekeepers Association and the Eastern Apicultural Association. He received the Devillbiss Award for from EAS in 2012 and was named Vermont Beekeeper of the Year in 2013. He lives in Burlington, Vermont. Jeff Danziger is represented by Washington Post Syndicate. He is the recipient of the Herblock Prize and the Thomas Nast (Landau) Prize. He served in the US Army in Vietnam and was awarded the Bronze Star and the Air Medal. He has published 11 books of cartoons and one novel. He lives in New York City.

Building Free Life
Dialogues with Öcalan
Edited by International Initiative “Freedom for Abdullah Öcalan—Peace in Kurdistan”

From his jail cell, Abdullah Öcalan has penned daringly innovative works that give profuse evidence of his position as one of the most significant thinkers of our day. His prison writings have mobilized tens of thousands of people and inspired a revolution in the making in Rojava, northern Syria, while also penetrating the insular walls of academia and triggering debate and reflection among countless scholars. So how do you engage in a meaningful dialogue with Öcalan when he has been held in isolation since April 2015? You compile a book of essays written by an international cast of the most imaginative luminaries of our time, send it to Öcalan’s jailers, and hope that they deliver it to him. Building Free Life stands as a monument of radical thought, a testament of resilience, and a searchlight illuminating the impulse for freedom. Contributors include Radha D’Souza, David Graeber, John Holloway, Raúl Zibechi, Antonio Negri, Immanuel Wallerstein, Andrej Grubacic, Nazan Ustündag, Peter Lamborn Wilson, Norman Paech, Donald H. Matthews, Thomas Jeffrey Miley, Damian Gerber, Shannon Brincat, Patrick Huif, Ekkehard Sauermann, and Mechthild Exo.

International Initiative “Freedom for Abdullah Öcalan—Peace in Kurdistan” is a multinational peace initiative for the release of Abdullah Öcalan.
State of the Heart
Stories of a Humanitarian Israel
David Kramer

In State of the Heart, David Kramer takes us on a journey of Israel’s humanitarian efforts that began more than 70 years ago and continues unabated throughout the world today. In this extraordinary and inspiring collection of over 50 stories, personal interviews, and photographs, David shares the benevolence and altruism that characterizes the nation of Israel. He engages the reader with narratives that identify and provide a glimpse into the compassionate soul of the Israeli people. Featured in these accounts are descriptions of life-saving technology and innovation, helping the disabled and teens at risk, managing food collection and distribution programs for the disadvantaged, immigrant absorption and elder care, infertility programs, women’s empowerment and human rights, rescuing victims in the aftermath of natural disasters worldwide, developing and providing life-saving solutions to those in third world countries, cleaning up and protecting the environment, and so much more. State of the Heart captures the unique level of concern, care and uncompromising sense of mission, undertaken by Israelis, within Israel and around the globe.

David Kramer is an educator, author and social entrepreneur. He has spent the past ten years helping Israeli and global non-profit organizations tell their story through a social start-up he founded in Israel. David spends much of his time meeting with tour groups in Israel, connecting them to the reality of life in Israel. He served in the Israeli army and lives in Jerusalem with his wife Tova and their five children.

Trump and the Resurrection of America
Leading America’s Second Revolution
John Michael Chambers

With the recent upset of the century, the shadow government of this world has experienced its first real setback with the election of Donald J. Trump as President of the United States. The globalists now tremble as Trump and this movement threatens their totalitarianism world government. Although optimism has returned, the battle now begins as President Donald J. Trump leads America’s second revolution. This book picks up where the author’s previous book, What One Man Can Do leaves off and addresses some very disruptive uncomfortable truths yet inspires and empowers the reader like no other body of work on this topic. We must acquire a substantially new way of thinking if we are to win this battle as failure is not an option. “We must not surrender to the false song of globalism. So, I am asking everyone to join this incredible movement. I am asking you to dream big, and bold and daring things for your family and for your country. I am asking you to believe in yourself again and I am asking you to believe in America”. —Donald J. Trump. When your children and grandchildren ask you, “What were you doing when the global governance was being introduced to America and the world?” What will your answer be? Freedom...it’s up to US.

John Michael Chambers is an author, speaker, and national media commentator. He is also the Chairman of the Sarasota Patriots for Trump group. John was the Founder of the Save America Foundation, a 501(c)(4) not for profit. He has been interviewed in the Wall Street Journal, CBS, NBC and many online media platforms including talk radio throughout the country. He lives in Tampa, Florida.

The Sociology of Freedom

Manifesto of the Democratic Civilization

Abdullah Öcalan

Foreword by John Holloway

When scientific socialism, which for many years was implement-ed by Abdullah Öcalan and the Kurdistan Workers’ Party (PKK), became too narrow for his purposes, Öcalan answered the call for a radical redefinition of the social sciences. Writing from his prison cell, he offered a new and astute analysis of what is happening to the Kurdish people, their freedom movement, and future prospects for humanity. The Sociology of Freedom is the third volume of a five-volume work titled The Manifesto of the Democratic Civilization. The general aim of the earlier volumes was to clarify what power and capitalist modernity entailed. Here, Öcalan presents his thesis of the Democratic Civilization, based on his criticism of Capitalist Modernity. This volume reveals the remarkable range of one of the Left’s most original thinkers with topics such as existence and freedom, nature and philosophy, anarchism and ecology. Recognizing the need for more than just a critique, he has advanced what is the most radical, far-reaching definition of democracy today and argues that a democratic civilization, as an alternative system, already exists, though systemic power and knowledge structures, along with a perverse sectarianism, do not allow it to be seen. This monumental work gives profuse evidence of his position as one of the most influential thinkers of our day.

Abdullah Öcalan actively led the Kurdish liberation struggle from 1978 until his abduction in February 1999. John Holloway is a professor of sociology at the Instituto de Ciencias Sociales y Humanidades in the Benemérita Universidad Autónoma de Puebla, Mexico. He has published widely on Marxist theory, on the Zapatista movement and on the new forms of anticapitalist struggle. He is the author of Change the World without Taking Power and Crack Capitalism.

Clear Bright Future

A Radical Defence of the Human Being

Paul Mason

“It’s the best analysis of neo-liberalism that I’ve seen for a long time, and puts our lives in a richly described context. Best of all, it’s written with clarity and passion. I hope it’ll change many minds.” —Philip Pullman

In Clear Bright Future, Paul Mason calls for a radical, impassioned defense of the human being, our universal rights and freedoms and our power to change the world around us. Ranging from economics to Big Data, from neuroscience to the culture wars, he draws from his on-the-ground reporting from mass protests in Istanbul to riots in Washington, as well as his own childhood in an English mining community, to show how the notion of humanity has become eroded as never before. In this book Paul Mason argues that we are still capable - through language, innovation and co-operation - of shaping our future. He offers a vision of humans as more than puppets, customers or cogs in a machine. This work of radical optimism asks: Do you want to be controlled? Or do you want something better?

Paul Mason is an award-winning writer, broadcaster, and film-maker. Previously economics editor of Channel 4 News, his books include PostCapitalism, Why It’s Kicking Off Everywhere: the New Global Revolutions; Live Working Die Fighting; and Rare Earth: A Novel.

Your Financial Revolution
The Power of Strategy
Gary Keesee

Life is full of major decisions. How do you know which house you should buy, who you should marry, or what job you should take? If you are going to be successful, you need a strategy. But how do you make a strategy when you don’t have all the answers? God’s secrets are hidden for you, not from you. God wants you to have the answers you need, and that’s why He gave you a secret weapon! In the third installment of the “Your Financial Revolution” series, Gary Keesee reveals one of the most significant components of his success and a critical secret to the Kingdom of God: The Power of Strategy! Anyone can catch fish if they know where to cast their nets. God has the answers you need, but you have to understand how to hear those answers and apply them to your life—and that’s what this book is all about. Join Gary on this eye-opening journey, and discover how to implement the Power of Strategy in your life!

Gary Keesee is an author, speaker, entrepreneur, financial expert, and pastor who has a passion for helping people win in life, especially in the areas of faith, family, and finances. Gary and his wife, Drenda, have created several successful businesses, and are the founders of Faith Life Now, which produces two television programs—“Fixing the Money Thing” and “Drenda,” worldwide conferences, and practical resources. The Keesees also pastor Faith Life Church near Columbus, Ohio.

The Sacramental Sea
A Spiritual Voyage Through Christian History
Edmund Newell

Biblical references to the sea are largely negative, yet many people find being near, or on, the sea deeply spiritual, and our art, poetry, hymns, and expressions of religious experience draw heavily on imagery of the sea. The Sacramental Sea is a theological exploration of this apparent paradox. Ed Newell explores the history of our complex spiritual relationship with the sea throughout history, scripture, scientific discovery, and literature.

Edmund Newell is a priest in the Church of England and an economic historian. He is currently Principal of Cumberland Lodge, Windsor, and was previously Sub-Dean of Christ Church, Oxford, and Canon Chancellor of St Paul’s Cathedral. Before ordination he was a Research Fellow in Economic History at Nuffield College, Oxford. As well as his academic articles, he has written features for the Church Times and five books. He is also a regular contributor to Pause for Thought on BBC Radio 2.
Our Father Forsaken
The Abandonment of the God of the Old and New Testaments
HJ Sean Moon

Bold and forceful in its condemnation of contemporary religion, Our Father Forsaken is a meticulously researched work that demands the attention of all Jews and Christians who seek the truth. In 120 A.D., Marcion of Sinope, a charismatic preacher, appeared in Rome to reveal the “hidden” teachings of Jesus. In the 19th Century, Marcionism was embraced by the German rationalists and made its way into contemporary Christianity. Such rationalists argued that the Torah had been composed not by Moses but a host of sources and could not be accepted as authentic. The New Testament, they argued, was equally unreliable. It was composed not by eyewitnesses but editors and that the gospel accounts had been subjected to the process of myth-making. The theology of the rationalists was taught in every leading Catholic and Protestant seminary in the United States. Since the scriptures were “contradictory” and a product of primitive times, students of religion were taught that Christian doctrine should be centered, on the “social gospel”—a gospel stripped of all supernatural elements and all passages deemed offensive to modern sensibilities. The result has been the creation of a religion that is devoid of the ambiguity and precariousness of life, of the awe before the divine majesty, and the judgment before the ineffable holiness.

HJ Sean Moon is the host of The King’s Report, a weekday broadcast stressing spiritual guidance and offering cutting edge commentary from a biblical perspective. In 2007, he was appointed to be the senior pastor of the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification, where he later served as international president.

Anne Hope: The Struggle for Freedom
The Life of the Visionary Co-Founder of Training for Transformation
Stephanie Kilroe

Anne Hope is well known as president of the ecumenical lay community, The Grail, in South Africa, as co-founder of the acclaimed Training for Transformation program for community development, and for her important work in the struggle against apartheid. Less is known about her dramatic and inspiring inner journey. Here, drawing on unique access to Anne’s diaries and prayer journals, Stephanie Kilroe sheds light on this previously hidden life and her struggle for freedom and wholeness in herself, in vocation, and in love.

Stephanie Kilroe is a writer and development worker, serving mostly vulnerable women and children, based in South Africa. She knew Anne for most of her life since first meeting her as a teenager in the early 1960s.
To Heal and Not to Hurt
A Fresh Approach to Safeguarding in Church
Rosie Harper and Alan Wilson

Since the Jimmy Savile revelations of 2012 churches in England, with other social institutions, have found themselves all but overwhelmed by a flood of safeguarding concerns and allegations. This is an urgent area of concern, about which there is much fear, anxiety and confusion. To Heal and Not to Hurt examines the deep institutional roots within the Church of abusive attitudes that have caused harm. It includes narrative examples of people who have suffered abuse from within the Church and in the response of the Church, and provides a calm, reasoned and practical basis on which to shape a more adequate and sustainable response in future.

Rosie Harper is the vicar of Great Missenden, UK. Alan Wilson is Bishop of Buckingham, and a leading voice in favour or same-sex marriage.

Irrevocable
Paul’s Radical Vision in Romans 9-11, and Why Christianity Can’t Handle It
Max R. King

In Irrevocable, King revolutionizes our understanding of the nature and scope of salvation in Scripture and our lives today. Drawing on his trademark attentiveness to the biblical text and the world of both Old and New Testaments, King helps us untangle some of the Apostle Paul’s most confounding thought: a portion of his famous letter to the Romans, specifically chapters 9-11. Drawing on Hebrew eschatological and apocalyptic influences, the teachings of Jesus, and a unique understanding of the epistle writer’s place in history, King demonstrates that this portion of Scripture—often used in religious history to exclude Jewish people from the table of blessing—means the exact opposite of what it’s commonly taken to mean, and this is good news for us all. Irrevocable is a ground-breaking work of canonical theology, with an attention to biblical detail that impresses the studious and a heart toward the grandeur of Paul’s vision of God that bolsters the compassionate. If you are tired of old religious polarities that are increasingly irrelevant in a pluralist, globally-connected world, Irrevocable is your invitation to discover a paradigm-shifting vision of life with God, each other, and the entire universe.

Max King is an author, scholar, and Bible teacher. He expanded this work by founding a series of annual Presence conferences and publishing the Presence Journal, leading to the formation of Presence as a 501c nonprofit. He is the author of The Cross and Parousia and The Spirit of Prophecy. He lives in Dacula, Georgia.

The Art of Feminine Spiritual Leadership
The Rev. Dr. Sara Shisler Goff

Do you feel like you spend more time being a professional “fixer” than a spiritual leader? Are you struggling to rekindle the joy in your ministry? Just as the church is undergoing a great shift, so are you—it’s time to become the leader you were born to be. In The Art of Feminine Spiritual Leadership, readers will learn tools for letting go of the impulse to be nice and do it right by following instincts and truth, accepting all parts of oneself, navigating unhealthy power dynamics, and giving over fully to the parts of the ministry that excite and letting go of the rest. If you are ready to become the minister you are called to be, this is a must-read!

The Rev. Dr. Sara Shisler Goff is an Episcopal priest who received her MDiv and STM from Yale Divinity School and her Doctor of Ministry from Episcopal Divinity School. She has trained with both Brené Brown and Regena Thomashauer. She lives on Maui with her wife, Heather.

Encounter
Are You Ready to Experience More of God’s Presence & Power?

Alan DiDio

Over time Christians often become complacent in their walk and witness. Sound familiar? You know the right answers. There’s no blatant sin holding you back. And yet, inside your soul there is a stirring—a hunger for more. If this is where you find yourself, congratulations. This is just the book you need. Maybe you feel like Gideon did before he encountered God in a supernatural way. Gideon, like so many of us, had settled into a life of just getting by, of survival. And yet God had so much more for him—a life of adventure, significance, purpose, and impact. A life where the supernatural presence of God was to be expected and experienced. This can be your experience too! This book will give you a path to a walk with God that is beyond what you have ever experienced before. This book is your key to more fire… more faith… more blessing… more of God!

Alan DiDio was an avowed atheist—that is until he had a transforming, radical encounter with the living God at age seventeen. After giving his life to Christ, Pastor Alan attended a Christian college and began working with an international ministry, where he gained experience in every possible area of ministry from running a prayer center to traveling across the country spreading the Gospel. During his time at the international prayer center, Alan prayed one-on-one, with more than 100,000 people. This rare experience ignited a unique passion for prayer and revival that led him to found Encounter Christ Church in his home town in North Carolina. In addition to pastoring the church, Alan travels the globe, training believers how to pray and igniting the fire of God in the hearts of humanity.

I Drink, Therefore I Am

Becky Atkinson

I Drink, Therefore I Am is the inspiring story of a woman who challenged the odds and learned to thrive. Becky discovered alcohol as a college freshman. She started drinking during sorority Rush Week—and decided she never wanted to stop. Over the next three decades, Becky held more than a dozen jobs, moved eight times, divorced three men, and married four. Alcohol clouded her judgment and ruined her life—until she found Jason, whose patience and prodding helped her find her way back to God and back to sobriety. Whether you’ve struggled with an addiction—or love someone who is struggling now—Becky’s true confessions and honest insights will prove a healing elixir on your journey to freedom.

Becky Atkinson is a life coach and the founder of Life of Impact. She lives in Colorado.
The Journey into the Divided Heart
Helping You Face the Defense Mechanisms that Hinder True Emotional Healing

Steve Fair

The Journey into the Divided Heart is a challenging guide that will push you spiritually to a new level of taking responsibility and defining your personal role in the process of healing your hurting heart. Though highly practical and spiritually directive, this book zooms out to give you a convicting overview of the human heart. In its state of being divided, our heart tends toward God as its healer but also toward itself as provider and protector simultaneously. You will learn your defense mechanisms, be led in decision-making journaling and prayers, and you will be given an overview of nine powerful, biblical, and clinical interventions that will lead you to living life to its fullest (John 10:10). This book is a must read for anyone looking for true lasting change, as well as a role-defining text for counselors and pastors who are looking to integrate cutting-edge clinical counseling with an unwavering faith-based, non-religious approach to working with the brokenhearted.

Steve Fair is the founder and the director of Renewal Christian Counseling Center, and has ministered as a speaker, teacher, and counselor for more than 25 years in Michigan. He received his master’s degree in social work from the University of Michigan in 1995.

Wait
Thoughts and Practice in Waiting on God
Rebecca Brewster Stevenson

Everyone has endured the endless traffic light, the queue that goes nowhere, the elevator music piped through the phone line. But what of those periods in your life when everything seems on hold? When you can’t do the next thing in your professional or personal life because you can’t get to it? Waiting—be it for health, a life partner, a child, a job—can be an agony, and hope can be exhausting. A firm no in response to the thing you’re waiting for might be easier than this constant lack of closure. But what if waiting means something more? Rather than pure idle-ness, our prolonged state of need might teach us to look beyond the desired goal to something infinitely better. We find lessons on this throughout the Bible and, if we are paying attention, in our own lives. Rather than fostering frustration, periods of waiting might have great truths to tell us. It might show us that hope is worthwhile. Waiting might even be a gift in and of itself.

Rebecca Brewster Stevenson worked with Trinity School of Durham and Chapel Hill to develop the curriculum for their humanities department. She also worked as an English teacher in middle and high schools in Durham and Pittsburgh. Rebecca’s debut novel Healing Maddie Brees was published in 2016 to literary acclaim, and the personal essays on her blog Small Hours have earned her a loyal audience that enjoys her explorations of family, marriage, faith, writing, language, literature, and film.

We Refugees
Edited by Emma Larking

We Refugees is the third anthology in a series designed to spark conversation, promote awareness, and generate funds to advance social justice and amplify the voices of the marginalized. Rather than the vision of crisis so often portrayed in the media, the poems, essays, and personal reflections in We Refugees are moving accounts of individual suffering and fortitude; demonstrations of the great willingness shared by many to bridge cultural divides and offer hope and healing; and celebrations of the courage of people who have been forced to leave their homes and seek new ones. The contributors are Kirsty Anantharajah, Jennifer deBie, Nina Foushee, Robbie Gamble, Akuol Garang, Sharif Gemie, Steven Jakobi, Enesa Mahmic, Loretta Oleck, Virginia Ryan, Judith Skillman, and Mitchell Toews. Pact Press is proud, through the sale of this anthology, to support the work of the Asylum Seeker Resource Centre (ASRC), which advocates for, empowers, and provides material support to people seeking asylum.

Black Jack
The Dawning of the New Great Age of Satan
S.K. Bain

Black Jack reveals the true date of the End of the Great Age, the Mother of All Auspicious Occasions, a date that the Cryptocracy has been fixated on—and feverishly preparing for—over the past two centuries, and well before. It will almost assuredly bring a ritualistic celebration like none other ever witnessed, involving mass human sacrifice and the biggest fireworks show in history. One doesn’t have to be a religious fundamentalist to sense it, or see it all around us—the Satanification of the World. Practically every public event is now a thinly-veiled, if at all, Satanic ritual. We are being driven hard towards something in the near future, something whose hideous form becomes clearer by the day. All the while, the grip of the global dark-occult technofascist dictatorship grows ever tighter. Preparations have been underway for a very long time, even from the Founding of America, and the hour grows late. With bated breath, the entire planet, knowingly or unknowingly, awaits the arrival of Black Jack.

S.K. Bain is the former art director for the Oxford American magazine and for the now-defunct neo-conservative Weekly Standard magazine. He is the author of The Most Dangerous Book in the World: 9/11 as Mass Ritual and Most Dangerous: A True Story.

Edited by Trevien Stanger
Photographs by M.E. Sipe

Water does not lie. Here in the Champlain Basin—a flowing landscape of mountains and rivers, forests and farms, towns and cities—it is the water that whispers difficult truths. From erosion, pollution, and habitat loss, to the toxic algae blooms that close Champlain’s beaches every summer, this once vital ecosystem is coming undone. And while there is no shortage of proposed technical and legislative solutions, it is clear that we also need distinct cultural responses to the problem—ways to see, hear, feel, and understand what the water is telling us. That is where this book comes in. Featuring the fine art photography of M.E. Sipe, the curating vision of Trevien Stanger, and over a dozen essays written by thinkers, academics, poets, farmers, and activists who call this region home, Our Basin of Relations presents new ways of thinking and old ways to remember, helping us chart a more honest path forward toward preservation and renewal. With open hearts, wild minds, and attentive bodies, these essayists deepen our insights and advance our sense of the possible for all of the beings, and for all of our relations, that constitute our home: this beautiful place, the Champlain Basin.

M.E. Sipe has been a serious amateur photographer for over 30 years, gracing personal walls with images that have staying power. Trevien Stanger is a poet, tree-planter, educator, and writer living and working in the Champlain Basin of Vermont and New York State.

The Land of Milk and Honey
A History of Beekeeping in Vermont
Bill Mares and Ross Conrad

Land of Milk and Honey: A History of Vermont Beekeeping follows the trials and tribulations of beekeepers in Vermont. This dramatic history begins in the early 1800’s following the life and times of inspired beekeepers that are the advance guard of a line of notable beekeepers that is to stretch through the centuries into modern times. Readers will discover a beekeeping lineage born and raised within a single Vermont county, and establishes a continuity of beekeeping knowledge and skill spanning more than a century. The lineage of beekeeping concludes in the present day as apiculturists throughout the world face some of the most challenging times in over 200 years with the possibility of honey bee extinction rearing its ugly head. Is it possible that by reflecting on the history of Vermont’s beekeepers we can find clues about what is needed to help the honey bee thrive today and well into the future?

Ross Conrad is a former president of the Vermont Beekeeper’s Association, a regular contributor to Bee Culture Magazine, and author of Natural Beekeeping: Organic Approaches To Modern Apiculture. His human-scale beekeeping business, Dancing Bee Gardens, supplies friends and neighbors with honey and other bee related products, 5-frame nucleus bee colonies in the spring, and rental hives for local pollination. Bill Mares has been a backyard beekeeper for more than 45 years. He has authored or co-authored 17 books on a range of topics, including Bees Besieged. He is former president of the Vermont Beekeeper’s Association and the Eastern Apicultural Association. He received the Devillbiss Award for from EAS in 2012 and was named Vermont Beekeeper of the Year in 2013. He lives in Burlington, Vermont.

Insects of the World
An Illustrated Guide to the World’s Most Abundant Creatures

Paul Zborowski

Insects are quite literally the largest subjects in the natural world, with more than 1 million species known. Using the simple observation that every picture is worth a thousand words, the 1,000+ photographs in this book are all presented with a caption that starts the process of discovery. When so many different lifestyles are possible, simple facts about what an insect does, why, where and how, can turn into novel and often weird tales. This wonderfully illustrated book is essentially a photographic guide to the fascinating diverse insect families of the world and is arranged accordingly. It encompasses all key families, including the likes of butterflies, dragonflies, beetles, ants, bees, and so on. There are usually two to four images per page, while some flagship species receive a full page. Each stunning photograph, taken of wild insects in their natural surroundings, is accompanied by useful text on identification, interesting features and geographical distribution. Insects of the World will be an essential reference for bug enthusiasts everywhere, from children fascinated with creepy crawlies right through to academics.

Paul Zborowski is an entomologist and photographer based in the Wet Tropics World Heritage area of Queensland. He has studied and photographed insect behavior around the world and now concentrates on maintaining a macro photo collection.

Wild Dives
The Most Mind-Blowing Underwater Encounters With Marine Animals From Around the World

Nick Robertson-Brown, FRPS and Caroline Robertson-Brown, MSC

A book filled with underwater adventures, Wild Dives takes the reader to remote locations to experience some of the best, and sometimes weirdest, underwater spectacles and adventures from around the world. What is a Wild Dive? One that gets you up close to amazing wild marine life, that makes your heart pump a little faster, and takes you to a remote and wild destination. The book covers 25 of the most memorable diving adventures from around the world, including amazing sharks in The Bahamas, exploring smaller critters in caves and on wrecks and reefs, swimming with Giant Manta Rays in the Pacific and even going eyeball to eyeball with whales. Each experience is accompanied by the authors’ beautiful underwater images.

Nick and Caroline Robertson-Brown are a husband and wife team of underwater photographers. They both have degrees in biology from Manchester University, with Caroline also having a masters in animal behaviour. Nick has been awarded a Fellowship from the Royal Photographic Society and he also has a masters in teaching. They are passionate about marine conservation and hope that their images can inspire people to look after our seas and oceans.
World of Reptiles
A Stunning Photographic Celebration of the Planet’s Crocodiles, Lizards, Snakes, Tuataras and Turtles

New Holland Publishers

World of Reptiles is a visual celebration of the diversity of the planet’s scaly inhabitants. It is a unique book in that it distills the 10,800 species of reptiles into 240 full-page images, with these photographs depicting representatives from 68 of the Earth’s 86 families. It covers everything from the very common to the extremely rare, from the huge Saltwater Crocodile to the miniscule Pygmy Chameleon, and from the venomous King Cobra to the highly endangered Tuatara. The completeness of the collection, and the fact that it contains many rare species, lends it strong appeal to keen reptile enthusiasts, while the remarkable nature of the images will be appreciated by anyone who has an interest in the subject – from beginner to expert – by showcasing the incredible diversity of the world’s reptiles.

New Holland Publishers is a publisher of quality and diverse product in all categories of non-fiction from travel, biography, sport and true crime to self-help, gardening, food and natural history. We pride ourselves on the highest editorial and design standards and we’re sure that you will find this commitment to quality reflected in our new releases and forthcoming highlights. Portraits of Wisconsin Naturalists, Empowering Leopold’s Legacy

Sumner Matteson

The is a fascinating book featuring the stories and histories of 20 naturalists from the state of Wisconsin that have been integral in the state. For 40 years the author has regularly made time to record the stories of Wisconsin field biologists, ecologists, conservation biologists, and land stewards. Each voice has also made vital contributions to natural history and conservation in Wisconsin. The group is connected across diverse places, times, and experiences. The reader will appreciate these stories as we face a future of rapidly changing social, economic, and environmental realities, most especially the uncertain effects of accelerating climate change.

Sumner Matteson has worked as a Nongame Biologist, Conservation Biologist, and Avian Ecologist for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources since 1981. He has authored and co-authored many papers and reports on nongame birds, and for 25 years led the successful effort to restore Trumpeter Swans to Wisconsin. He lives in Madison, Wisconsin.

Along Interstate 75 Series

Along Interstate-75
20th Edition

Dave Hunter

Interstate-75 is the main route for the millions of Midwestern snowbirds who drive to and from Florida each winter, and this edition of Along I-75 is the must have guide for the trip. Whether a first-timer or one who has driven the route for many years, the book is packed with local information along the way, a culmination of more than 50 years of the author’s Florida-bound I-75 driving experience. Included are local knowledge, insider and money saving tips, lodging and restaurant recommendations, and mile-by-mile roadside stories and entertainment. Each of the book’s 25 mile-per-page colored strip-maps takes an average of 30 minutes to drive, providing a sense of pacing for your trip - excellent for planning your night stops while on the route. The two sets of custom-designed maps (south and northbound) are intuitive and very easy to use - even for non-map readers. Each fit your direction of travel so landmarks and features drawn on the right side of the map, pass on the right side of your car. Designed with in-car use in mind, the book has a laminated wrap-around cover and book mark flap. A concealed plastic spiral binding allows the book to be easily folded back to display the current road-section map.

Dave Hunter loves maps, history, driving, and discovering unusual stories along the way. With more than twenty-five years of writing about I-75 road travel, he has become the media “go-to” person when producing annual drive-to-Florida content, and has appeared in hundreds of newspaper articles and radio & TV guest appearances. He is a credentialed member of the prestigious Society of American Travel Writers (SATW). He also holds media credentials with the North American Travel Journalist Association (NATJA) and International Travel Writers Alliance-UK (ITWA).

After The Wind
Tragedy on Everest One Survivor’s Story

Lou Kasischke

“Kasischke’s account provides an eye-opening look at the perils and extreme conditions on Everest. Evocative illustrations by Jane Cardinal further enhance the text, and includes maps and timelines.” — Publishers Weekly

May 10, 1996 is the date of the most historic tragedy in Mount Everest history. Eight climbers died. Lou Kasischke was there. He lived that story. The climbing events and the forces of nature were at the extreme, especially when things went wrong. The drama near the summit was high. But the crux of the story has much in common with everyday life. This was Lou’s struggle with himself 400 feet from the summit, when he faced a tough decision and conflicting internal voices about what to do. The story is an example of how and where to go for the guidance and strength needed in such moments. Lou tells the story about what happened and what went wrong. But Lou’s personal story is more than about being there. It’s also about his long aftermath journey to understand his experience, to find meaning in it, and to find guidance from it for his future goals and challenges. The story is both sad and triumphant.

Lou Kasischke is a former specialist in corporate and tax law and in representing venture capital businesses. He is the author of a leading book on corporate law. His professional career, especially as a lawyer and a venture capital advisor, often focused on taking high-stakes business risks, managing risk, and making decisions with far-reaching consequences. This part of his life made his several decades as a serious mountain climber a natural extension. He is retired from law and business and lives in Good Hart, Michigan.

Essential Fly Patterns for Lakes and Streams
Tips for Tying Your Own Flies
Brian Smith

In Essential Fly Patterns for Lakes and Streams, Brian Smith cuts to the chase, offering the reader and fly tier more than 80 flies with recipes and instructions for each. In his third book, Smith shares the results of his more than 50 years of experimentation and research developing and refining fly patterns that are proven fish-catchers. Some of the patterns are world standards, but many have been tweaked and altered by Smith through his observations and studies of insects, including where they live in lakes and streams and what triggers are responsible to entice fish to “eat the fly.” The book provides details for tying the most important insect imitations in their various stages of lifeforms and is full of Smith’s important tips about their pattern developments. The fly-tying tips in Essential Fly Patterns for Lakes and Streams have been perfected over Smith’s countless hours of fun at the vise and are uniquely designed to simplify the process of tying replica fly patterns that are consistent in appearance, size, shape and attitude.

Brian Smith is a freelance outdoor writer who has been an accomplished fly tier, rod builder and fly-fishing enthusiast for more than 50 years. His work has appeared in Outdoor Edge magazine, Fly Fishing & Tying Journal, the Canadian Fly Fisher magazine and Northwood Magazine. He is the author of Fly Fishing BC’s Interior and Seasons of a Fly Fisher. He lives in Prince George, BC.

Genex of Halcyon
Joshua Stelling

In this near-future utopia, in Halcyon all are free. People with wings fly alongside skyline railcars, between the towers. They are more than what we’ve known as human, the next stage of our evolution. Amid the psychic computers and genetic freaks, competitive laser sports and mindless bots, runs a love triangle stronger than death itself. Over these three nights in 2051, Harmony and Azad must find their way through misfits and prophets, blood and tears, to new horizons. Their fate, in the time of climate change, in the afterglow of the rise of machines, is entwined with the world.

Joshua Stelling is a poet and music lover who has spent a lot of his time running record stores around Denver, building his own art on the side. In time, the stories inside the man have boiled over, becoming worlds, and his pages turned into books. Combining hard sci-fi and adult fiction with a fluent love of metaphor and poetry, his work will challenge you but leave you wanting more.

Shortcut to the Grave
Susan Harris

Melanie Newton might have taken a shortcut to the grave, but she took to her second life with an ease that surprised everyone. Everything in her life seems to have finally slotted into place—well, apart from a certain stubborn-as-hell, sexy-as-sin warlock. The most frustrating part is she knows he feels the same, but all the obstacles keep their fire at a frustrating simmer. So far, Melanie doesn’t know how to light things up for good. Ricky Moore hasn’t had a good few months. He’s struggling with his feelings about his growing power, battling addiction, and learning he has a five-year-old kid—all of which really messes with a guy’s head. Fresh from rehab, Ricky is certain, more now than ever before, that Lanie is the one for him. This time, he’s finally ready to play for keeps—if she’ll have him. When Melanie and Ricky are sent undercover to find out who’s responsible for the drug wreaking havoc on the supernatural community—the same drug that turned Ricky into an addict—they come face to face with someone from her past who threatens to destroy everything. The lines between what’s real and what’s for the job are about to be blurred into obscurity, but neither of them seems to care. The spark they shared has always been combustible, but now it seems unstoppable. In the end, will true love be enough to save them or is someone destined to get burned?

Susan Harris is a writer from Cork, Ireland and when she’s not torturing her readers with heart-wrenching plot twists or killer cliff-hangers, she’s probably getting some new book related ink, binging her latest tv or music obsession, or with her nose in a book.

The Knights of England Series

The Lion and the Leopard
Book 1
Mary Ellen Johnson

Maria Rendell wants to be a dutiful wife to husband Phillip, but she can’t deny her attraction to their liege lord, Richard of Sussex. Loving Philip should be easy. She has married the knight of whom minstrels sing; the knight who saved Richard’s life. But when Phillip abandons Maria to indulge his wanderlust, she turns to Richard, sparking a scandalous, passionate affair amidst the crumbling kingdom of Edward II. Meanwhile, Edward II’s barons are rebelling, executing his favorites, while across the channel in France, Isabella, Edward II’s wife—the She-Wolf of France—plans to invade England. Then King Edward is captured as Richard and Maria prepare to flee to safety, and Phillip returns to discover Maria’s betrayal. The day of reckoning is now at hand—not only for Maria, Richard, and Phillip, but for that most unfortunate of Plantagenet kings, Edward II.

Mary Ellen Johnson is a writer who, after taking a 20-year detour in a quixotic quest to change the world, has happily returned to historical fiction writing and her favorite time period, the tumultuous fourteenth century. She lives in Woodland Park, Colorado.

Winter Willow
A Novel
Deborah-Anne Tunney

During a winter season in the mid-1970s, unexpected and dramatic events shape the lives of three people living in the mansion, Winter Willow. Melanie, a young graduate student, is grieving the loss of her mother and main support system when she discovers that her PhD funding has been cancelled. Then she meets Stone, owner of Winter Willow, an old mansion in her neighbourhood, and is offered a position as his personal assistant. Moving in with him during that snowy and isolating season not only creates a strange sleepiness that makes it difficult for Melanie to concentrate on her studies, but also serves to disrupt the life and routine of Stone and his housekeeper, Celeste. When Melanie begins a relationship with a fellow grad student, she is confronted with the choice between a future with him and her life at Winter Willow. This novel explores the moment when a life can change, the pivot upon which the future depends.

Deborah-Anne Tunney has been writing since she was a child, through the years of school, working as a communication officer and in other positions at the National Research Council. Her work has appeared in Narrative (one of these stories translated to Arabic), Missouri Review, Fiddlehead, Descant, among other publications. She lives with her husband, André, and cats in Ottawa.

A Midnight Clear
Sam Hooker, Aly Leyva, Laura Morrison, Cassondra Windwalker, Dalena Storm, and Seven Jane

This short story collection includes six stories of not-so-merry Yuletide whimsy. A woman so cold she hardens to ice on a winter’s eve. Risen from his grave before his time, a winter god alters the balance between seasons. A wolf’s holiday season is interrupted by a strange curse. From a murder at the Stanley Hotel to demons of Christmas past, present, and future, and a mad elf and Santa’s Candy Court, these authors share their love for winter holidays in this collection of dark winter tales, destined to chill your bones and warm your heart for the Yuletide season.

Sam Hooker writes darkly humorous fantasy novels. He lives in Mission Viejo, California. Aly Leyva is a Bronx-born writer, teacher, and pizza enthusiast. He has been published in Popmatters, The Rumpus, Entropy Mag, and Quiet Lunch Magazine. Laura Morrison has a B.S. in applied ecology and environmental science from Michigan Technological University. She lives in the Metro Detroit area. Cassondra Windwalker is a poet and novelist writing full time from the coast of the Kenai Peninsula in Alaska. Dalena Storm currently resides with a rare Burmese temple cat, a purring black fluff-beast, a professor of magic, and an infant with an astonishing ability to resist sleep. She lives in Western Massachusetts. Seven Jane is an author of dark fantasy and speculative fiction. She also writes a column for The Women’s Fiction Association and is a contributor to The Nerd Daily.

Privilege
Jason Patrick Rothery

With his divorce nearly finalized, the surprise success of his freshman book on the wane, and his ill-advised affair with grad student Lara Kitts put to bed, Dr. Barker Samuel Stone is on the precipice of a cozy tenure-track existence. All in all, none too shabby for a straight, aware, upper-middle-class white dude. Then an enigmatic e-mail sends Barker’s life spiraling along an unanticipated trajectory. Summoned to a late-night confab at the campaign office of controversial mayoral candidate Baz Randell – folk hero to some, populist blowhard to everyone else – Barker is looped in on an epic, career-ending scandal. In the midst of mounting chaos, Barker is informed that an anonymous complainant has levied a claim of sexual misconduct against him. Given the university’s embarrassing record of botching cases of misconduct, Barker is advised that the administration is looking to bring the hammer down on someone – anyone – hard. In his whole life, Barker has never before felt so much like a nail.

Jason Patrick Rothery is a freelance writer, theatre artist, and lapsed academic. He has a BFA in Creative Writing from the University of British Columbia and was teh resident playwright for the Soulpepper Academy in Toronto. Privilege is his first novel.

Kate Murdoch

Blois, 1705. The château of Duc Hugo d’Amboise simmers with rivalry and intrigue. Henriette d’Augustin, one of five mistresses of the duc, lives at the château with her daughter. When the duc’s wife, Duchesse Charlotte, maliciously undermines a new mistress, Letitia, Henriette is forced to choose between position and morality. She fights to maintain her status whilst targeted by the duchesse who will do anything to harm her enemies. The arrival of charismatic tarot reader, Romain de Villiers, further escalates tensions as rivals in love and domestic politics strive for supremacy. In a society where status is a matter of life and death, Henriette must stay true to herself, her daughter, and her heart, all the while hiding a painful secret of her own.

Kate Murdoch exhibited widely as a painter both in Australia and internationally before turning her hand to writing. Her short-form fiction has been published in literary journals in Australia, UK, US and Canada. Her debut novel, Stone Circle, was on the semi-finalist list for the Chaucer Awards 2018 for pre-1750’s historical fiction. She was awarded a KSP Fellowship to develop her third novel, The Glasshouse. She lives in Melbourne with her husband and two children.

What You Don’t Know

Merry Jones

Nora Warren hides her dark side well because she’s had years of practice. The wife of a lawyer and mother of two girls, she slides under everyone’s radar, never revealing what she really is—a murderer. At least, she feels like one. Nora’s plagued by the secrets surrounding her older brother’s suicide decades earlier. Yet she lives as though he never existed. Now, in her thirties, Nora suspects her husband, Dave, is having an affair with her friend, the wife of a leading US Senate candidate. When her friend’s body is discovered—another apparent suicide—Nora is left with haunting secrets and choices that dredge up her grim nature, the side of herself that no one ever sees. Will she act on her impulses? Mustn’t she? How far will Nora go to protect the life she has built for herself?

Merry Jones is the award winning author of non-fiction, humor, and dark fiction. She is a long time writing teacher, lecturer, speaker and panelist, and a member of The Authors Guild, International Thriller Writers, Mystery Writers of America and The Philadelphia Liars Club. The Threshing Floor
Ray Bentley and Bodie Thoene

A dangerous secret. A vicious plot. Visions of the past. While Jack Garrison is forever a changed man free of his bitterness, his future looks uncertain. After protecting him from a terrorist attack, the girl he loves, Bette Deekmann, struggles to stay alive all while harboring a dangerous secret. As her past comes to light, Jack finds himself wondering—who is she, really? While he digs deeper into her mysterious identity, his visions of the past continue to draw him into Israel’s history. But, soon, Jack begins to see that both Bette and Israel are a part of God’s bigger plan as well as the focus of an age-old battle—a violent and dangerous war. Prophecy, history, and captivating story-telling intertwine as Ray Bentley and Bodie Thoene reveal the second installment of The Elijah Chronicles: The Threshing Floor.

Ray Bentley founded Maranatha Chapel in August 1984 teaching a mid-week bible study in a recreation center with 30 people. Now, Maranatha serves 7,000 people weekly, and Ray Bentley is considered a prophecy expert, published author, and hosts his own daily radio show. He and his wife Vicki have been married for 40 years and together they have been blessed to serve in ministry with their two grown children along with their spouses, Daniel and Jill Bentley and Shawn and Annie Stone. Ray and Vicki also have six grandchildren they adore. Bodie and Brock Thoene have written over 70 works of historical fiction. Over thirty-five million of these best-selling novels are in print in 30 languages. Eight ECPA Gold Medallion Awards affirm what millions of readers have already discovered: the Thoenes are not only master stylists but experts at capturing readers minds and hearts.

The Mile Marker Murders
C.W. Saari

When Caleb Williamson, a career officer with the CIA, disappears, officials are left wondering whether he is a spy who has defected or the victim of a crime. Meanwhile, Williamson’s friend, FBI agent Tyler Bannister, is focused on catching an extortionist who has threatened to unleash a biological poison if a multimillion dollar demand is not met. When Williamson turns up dead alongside the corpses of two women near a northern Virginia highway, Bannister is assigned to a task force to identify what looks to be a cunning serial killer. While Bannister becomes obsessed with finding the murderer before he strikes again, a fourth body is discovered. The stakes become more personal when the killer targets Bannister’s new love interest.

C.W. Saari is a graduate of Whittier College, Willamette University Law School, and the National War College. He served his country in the US Marine Corps, then spent twenty-seven years as an FBI Special Agent where he supervised undercover operations and espionage investigations. He is currently a private investigator in Lexington, South Carolina, where he resides with his wife, Carol.

The O'Shaughnessy Chronicles Series

Puppet on a String
Harold William Thorpe

In the first two books of The O'Shaughnessy Chronicles, we got to know Will and his beloved wife, Mary, as they raised their family in the boom times of the 1920s and the struggles of the Great Depression. In this third book, we become better acquainted with the O'Shaughnessy children—Sharon, the practical-minded oldest daughter; Ruby, the strong-willed middle child who has a penchant for getting into trouble; and Catherine, the impressionable youngest daughter who goes along with Ruby’s schemes. Catherine is Ruby’s puppet, but she’s willing to let her sister pull her strings because it often leads to excitement and adventure. When the girls’ cousin Gusta moves in with the family, Catherine can’t help but see her as “Ruby in high gear.” It’s not until Catherine grows up and begins dating the dashing Jonathon Hays, over Ruby’s vehement objections, that the puppet’s strings begin to fray. Will Ruby’s attempts to keep Catherine and Jonathon apart sever the ties between the sisters forever?

Harold William Thorpe is a former teacher and served in administrative positions as a graduate program coordinator, a department chairperson, and a college associate dean. But his first love was conducting research that produced more than 25 publications in education and psychology journals. After retirement, he decided to learn how to write fiction.

Distant Hearts, Different Worlds
Daniel Kemnitz

It was by accident that Minneapolis radio personality Jack Kramp wrote his way into the life of Lisa Lisignoli, a book editor in New York. Struggling with the sudden loss of his wife and left to raise his three children, Jack is on the edge of depression while fighting early stages of alcoholism. His long nights of insomnia and drinking drive him to write a manuscript that is accepted by Lisa’s publisher in New York. However, Lisa disdains the low level assignment of editing Jack’s book and her problem is compounded by the fact she deeply dislikes Midwesterners. Summoned to New York for two weeks of editing, Jack quickly discovers he and Lisa have absolutely nothing in common and he quickly finds himself in an unfamiliar world of uncertainty and hidden dangers. While Lisa is haunted by an unsolved murder case, Jack inadvertently stumbles on a sinister kidnapping plot that places both of them in grave danger. With their diverse personalities, Lisa and Jack are forced to struggle independently to bring order, sensibility and resolution to their unpredictable relationship. Jack’s easygoing charm, jaded wit and soft-spoken quips are in direct contrast to Lisa’s hard-core personality, vehement determination and her unfulfilled dream.

Daniel Kemnitz has worked in sales and marketing, upper management, and the creative departments of three Twin Cities advertising firms, seven radio stations in the upper Midwest, plus a regional newspaper. His writing has appeared in Readers Digest and other publications. Pages is his first novel.

Remains
Andrew Cull

Grief is a black house. How far would you go? What horrors would you endure if it meant you might see the son you thought you’d lost forever? Driven to a breakdown by the brutal murder of her young son, Lucy Campbell had locked herself away, fallen deep inside herself, become a ghost haunting room 23b of the William Tuke Psychiatric Hospital. There she’d remained, until the whispering pulled her back, until she found herself once more sitting in her car, calling to the son she had lost, staring into the black panes of the now abandoned house where Alex had died. Tonight, someone is watching her back.

Andrew Cull is an award-winning writer and horror director. He wrote and directed the horror hit The Possession of David O’Reilly. His story collection Bones was released to acclaim in 2018. It has been described as ‘a masterclass in emotional cinematic horror fiction.’ Andrew lives in Melbourne, Australia. He loves horror and Hitchcock, and, like you, he’s not easily scared. Remains is Andrew’s debut novel.

The Year of the Fruit Cake

Gillian Polack

Humankind is in danger. The Year of the Fruitcake tells of the Earth-based life of a mostly-mindwiped alien anthropologist inhabiting a human perimenopausal body instead of her own more rational body with its capacity to change gender. This alien has definitely shaken a great intergalactic empire by sitting in cafés with her new best friends. Chocolate may or may not have played a part. Will humanity survive? Polack describes her novel as, “Bleak. It’s political. It’s angry. It’s also sarcastic, cynical and funny.”

Gillian Polack is a writer, editor, historian and teacher, with doctorates in both history and creative writing. Several of her books have been short-listed for awards. She is a member of Book View Café and also blogs for the History Girls and for Medievalists.net. In her copious spare time she practises sarcasm, cooking, reading and narrative analysis. From her very first novel readers told her that her fiction reflected her life, when it really didn’t. To make up for this, she generally includes at least one real episode in each of her novels. She vows to stop doing this after The Year of Fruit Cake.

The Language of Divorce

A Novel

Leanne Treese

Hannah and Will Abbott define the American dream: two kids, a home in the suburbs, and a seemingly perfect marriage. But discontent lurks under the surface of their outwardly happy lives. Both Will and Hannah suspect the other of infidelity. When they independently consult divorce attorneys, the conflict escalates and Hannah flees with the children against a court order. This snap decision starts a social media firestorm and, suddenly, the Abbott divorce is big news. With family stress and legal fees rising, Will and Hannah accept an invitation to appear on a reality television show for divorcing couples. During filming on the beautiful island of St. John, the Abbotts must decide once and for all: can their love survive their past? The story unfolds through viewpoint of four characters: Will, the affable boy-next-door everyone loves; Hannah, the fastidious wife still in love with her husband; David, the tough-talking attorney with a heart of gold; and Rachel, the insecure novice lawyer infatuated with the Abbotts. Written with both humor and heart, The Language of Divorce is a captivating debut featuring deeply-drawn characters who will stay in readers’ hearts long after the final page.

Leanne Treese is a former attorney who is now lucky enough to write full-time. She lives in New Jersey.

The Book of Daniel and the Mystery of the Resurrection Machine

Daniel Holloway

An encounter with the mysterious little old man leaves an unassuming boy with an unfathomable message about a prior life as well as an ominous warning about an ancient foe. In the process of recounting his angelic past, he embarks on a journey that will cost him everything. Finding the magic books of Belteshazzar, the man tells his story and the secret of a resurrection machine, an ancient technology that will literally open a portal to another dimension. While the Book of Daniel is written as a fiction, the de-code of every ancient scripture is an absolutely real and Earth shattering revelation. By the end of the story it is truly difficult to believe that it was fictional at all, but rather all fact.

Daniel Holloway is an unknown quantum in the world of book-writing, and so chose to present this book as a fiction. He did so believing the information would be more palatable for a larger, general audience in that format. The value of this book is not in it being a literary masterpiece, but rather in that it is the only link between an ancient knowledge and the modern world. It is the author’s contention that, once realized, these revelations will change everything we know, and believe about other worlds, God, science, and ourselves. Everything will change.

The Courage of Kings

Dana Hallin

It’s been two years since Benjamin and Breelyn Stanton lost their only son, Jayden, to a random shooting on an LA freeway. They appear to be coping with their loss as they continue running their companies and living a life of tasteful elegance within the wealthy Southern California scene, but they both know their worlds are crumbling from the inside out. What starts as an international trip to escape their grief soon evolves when they discovers an intriguing entry in Jayden’s journal. As their carefully constructed lives continue to unravel, they find themselves propelled into the middle of a terrorist plot involving the CIA, an orphanage full of children, and a deadly ticking time bomb. As their riveting story unfolds, Ben and Bree—and the people they meet along the way—must each make life-changing decisions.

Dana Hallin is passionate about travel, artistic expression, and deep spiritual connection. She currently splits her time between the deserts of Arizona and the lakes and mountains of Northern Idaho. Three years in the making and written in the early hours of the morning, this is her first novel—a testament that it is never too late to be courageous.

The Year I Left
Christine Brae

Carin Frost doesn’t understand what’s happening to her. A confident businesswoman, wife, and mother, she begins to resent everything about her life. Nothing makes sense. Nothing makes her feel. Maybe it’s the recent loss of her mother in a tragic accident. Or maybe she’s just losing her mind. Enter Matias Torres. As their new business partnership thrives, so does their friendship—and his interest in her. Carin is determined to keep her distance, until a work assignment sends them to Southeast Asia where a storm is brewing on the island. In the midst of the chaos, Matias asks her to do something unimaginable, exhilarating, bold. Carin knows the consequences could be dire, but it may be the only way to save herself. An honest look at love and marriage and the frailties of the human heart, this is a story of a woman’s loss of self and purpose and the journey she takes to find her way back.

Christine Brae was born and raised in the city of Makati, Philippines before she met and married her best friend who whisked her away to Chicago over twenty years ago. Since then, Christine has established herself as a full time career woman, holding a senior executive position in one of the largest global advertising agencies in the world. Anna Kavan

“Entering this haunting realm, the reader will crave to plunge deeper into her metallic and poetically surreal universe.” —Patti Smith

This anthology of Anna Kavan’s short fiction and journalism marks the 50 years since her death in 1968, offering an accessible introduction to readers new to her work and a timely survey of her diverse literary talents for her fans. From moving portraits of clinical depression to phantasmagoric visions of science-fiction wonder, the selection is taken from across Kavan’s oeuvre, representing the best of her writing and showing the range of her style. Readers will encounter oblique and elegiac tales of breakdown and incarceration from Asylum Piece (1940), moving evocations of wartime from I Am Lazarus (1945), fantastic and surrealist pieces from A Bright Green Field (1958) and stories of heroin addiction from Julia and the Bazooka (1970). Her science-fiction stories will appeal to fans of her final novel Ice, while the previously unpublished ‘Starting a Career’ is a futuristic spy-thriller. Her book reviews reveal something of her literary tastes and influences as well as being a platform for her beliefs regarding psychology, ethics and the importance of art and literature in turbulent times. Machines in the Head shows the extraordinary range of Kavan’s work, which is, by turns, moving, funny, bizarre, poignant, often unsettling but always distinctive and unique.

Anna Kavan (1901-1968) was a British experimental writer and artist. She is best known for her collections of stories including Asylum Piece, I Am Lazarus and Julia and the Bazooka and for her novels including Sleep Has His House and Ice.

Plugging the Causal Breach

Mary Byrne

The stories in Plugging the Causal Breach explore the lives of a disparate collection of characters from French life. Many live in the shadow of the wonders of historic Paris, others in the villages of Normandy, others still in the French Midi. Here, tellingly brought together, they form the scattered mosaic of a historical puzzle that is far beyond the individual’s grasp. Some choose to be loners: furniture vendor M. Pierre, the drunken truck driver at the door of a cheap hotel, the sculptor watching his building go up in flames, a depressed estate agent. Others fight something bigger than themselves: Zorica’s trouble with the French administration, the harassment Chantal endures while working within it. There are traces of an older France in stories from Normandy, in the tale of a German ex-POW’s war and his courageous local companion, in the account by a former chateau cook of what may be a rural myth. These stories depict a lesser-known France, brimming with communicative boldness, resilience, and humor.

Mary Byrne’s prizewinning short fiction has been published/broadcast andanthologized, in print and online, in Europe, North America, Australia and New Zealand. Mary has taught English in universities in Paris and Normandy, and has also worked as an editor and a translator. Currently collating collections of short fiction set in Morocco and Ireland, she lives in Montpellier, France.

Winning Chance

Stories

Katherine Koller

In the stories in Winning Chance, Katherine Koller explores second chances, how we find them, and how we find the courage to take them. Whether they are contractors running into an ex while on the job, a busy mother pursuing community theatre, or a family building an illegal ice rink after an environmental collapse, Katherine Koller has created empathetic portraits of characters searching to connect.

Katherine Koller writes for stage, screen and page. Last Chance Leduc won the Alberta Playwriting Competition and was recently produced in Edmonton; her documentary series, Sustainable Me, has a new season in development; and her novel, Art Lessons, was a finalist for the Robert Kroetsch Edmonton Book Prize and for the Alberta Readers’ Choice Award in 2017. Katherine is serving as the 2018-19 Writer in Residence for the Canadian Authors Association in Edmonton, where she lives.

The O'Shaughnessy Chronicles Series

Strawberry Summer
Reflections, Friends, and Renewed Hope
Harold William Thorpe

In the fourth and final book of The O'Shaughnessy Chronicles, septuagenarian Catherine O'Shaughnessy spends her days tending her English cottage garden and basking in memories of lost loved ones. If only her son, Bill, wouldn’t worry so much about her living alone. His concerns seem well-founded, however, when Catherine starts receiving mysterious late-night phone calls and a neighbor sees a shadowy figure stalking her property. Who is trying to frighten her? Adding to Catherine’s woes, she receives some troubling news about her sister, Ruby. Did a long-ago mean-spirited act by Ruby cause Catherine to lose her one chance at happiness? Some beloved friends re-enter Catherine’s life, and she is confronted with several choices for her future. Could she start a new life—even a new business—when most people have settled into retirement? And could a mutual love of rhubarb strawberry pie be the basis of a new friendship over a memorable Strawberry Summer?

Harold William Thorpe is a former teacher and served in administrative positions as a graduate program coordinator, a department chairperson, and a college associate dean. But his first love was conducting research that produced more than 25 publications in education and psychology journals. After retirement, he decided to learn how to write fiction.

The Esther Scroll
The Author’s Tale
Seymour Epstein

Seymour Epstein’s The Esther Scroll: The Author’s Tale is a bold thesis and a radically new interpretation of The Book of Esther that contends it was written neither as light comedy, nor as sacred history, nor as a romance, nor as a handbook for Jewish survival in the Diaspora. Rather, it is a satire on Jewish life in the Diaspora. “Epstein’s argument stands all previous readings of Esther on their head” (Hillel Halkin, from the Preface).

Seymour Epstein is a well known and well traveled educator, whose long engagement with Jewish life has taken him from Toronto to Morocco, from the Unites States to Siberia, and Israel. He has worked professionally for many major Jewish organization world-wide. He is also the author of many policy documents, academic articles poetry and monthly newspaper columns. His book From Couscous to Kasha: Reporting from the Field of Jewish Community Work was published in both English and Russian. He lives in Toronto.

The Second Life of Eddie Coyne
Louis K. Lowy

Eddie Coyne loves playing the horses. Loves it so much it’s ruining his relationship with his wife and six-year-old son. In a last ditch effort to prove he’s not a loser in their eyes, Eddie places a seemingly impossible bet on a long shot and hits pay dirt. But before he can cash in and make amends with his family, he’s thrown down an escalator and left for dead by a greedy hoodlum looking to cash in on Eddie’s winnings. Dying, Eddie wakes up in the presence of the Jesses, a monolithic group of six whose job it is to decide who enters heaven and who enters hell. The Jesses tell Eddie he’s stuck in the middle—not good enough for heaven, not bad enough for hell. They entice him to go in on one final bet to break the dead heat. If he triumphs, they stamp his ticket to paradise. If he loses, he spends eternity in the netherworld. The bet? Eddie must prevent someone chosen by the Jesses from taking their own life. Thinking it will be a piece of cake, Eddie agrees. He quickly learns the Jesses are more cunning than he’d imagined.

Louis K. Lowy is a former firefighter. He is the author of three novels, Die Laughing, Pedal, and the award winning To Dream. He is the recipient of a State of Florida Individual Artist Fellowship and an alumnus of Florida International University’s creative writing program. He lives in South Florida.

The Kingfisher’s Debt
Kura Carpenter

Magic isn’t real, right? Within the small coastal city of Dunedin, local translator, Tamsin Fairchild has a reputation she hates. People think she’s psychic... Tamsin belongs to a hidden community of Witches, Faeries and Elementals. Always hovering around and interfering in Tamsin’s life, part father-figure, part thorn in her side, Detective Jackson, is an old-school cop. Childhood friend to her deceased mother, Tamsin wonders could her mother have let an outsider in on the truth? Newcomer, rookie cop Scott Gale is forced to team-up with Tamsin when they investigate the disappearance of a newborn baby and a bizarre crime scene—satanic ritual or hoax? More and more the blame starts to point towards Tamsin... Tamsin must uncover who’s framing her, find the baby before it’s too late, unravel the mystery behind her elder brother’s disappearance, and stop Scott from entering a world not meant for human eyes. But Scott has family secrets of his own and Tamsin doesn’t know who to trust. But can you trust Tamsin? What if the person who saved your life is about to frame you for murder?

Kura Carpenter is a writer and graphic designer based in the small but perfectly formed coastal city of Dunedin, New Zealand.

A Thousand Dances
A Novel of the British Blues Boom
Sara Holliday
“Certainly captures the flavour of that time! Took me back.”
–Jim McCarty, founding drummer of the Yardbirds

Rhythm & blues is exploding all over the London area. It’s a thousand dances in the teen clubs—until someone turns up dead. It’s 1963, and 17-year-old Nicky Spinnery is swept away by London’s new sounds. With his best friend Lucinda, a peacekeeper filmmaker, he dances his way around the city, crossing paths with brink-of-famers like Pete Townshend, Keith Richards, and Eric Clapton. But when a strange madness starts felling his fellow club-goers, Nicky turns amateur detective, looking for answers among musicians, mods and miniskirts, armed only with his big mouth. A Thousand Dances pulses with the energy and excitement of the year the Beatles hit the big time, following the music from the kitchen sink to the dives of Soho, from suburban teen clubs to the swinging streets of Piccadilly.

Sara Holliday is a graduate of Oberlin College and the Oberlin Conservatory of Music. She lives in New York City, among too many books and records. This is her first novel.

Savage Joy
A Novel
Robert Dunn

In Savage Joy the narrator, Cole Whitman, straddles his uptown literary world and the budding Lower Manhattan punk scene. When an apartment in his building at 340 East 11th Street opens up, musician Slater Martin moves in, sweeping Cole along into his CBGBs world. Also moving into 340 is Cole’s elegant and mysterious literary editor pal Emily Prosser, whom Cole desires unrequitedly. Cole needs a girlfriend, Slater needs a new band, Emily needs a new life. Together the three of them, along with a fiery female drummer called Sailor and a dweeby bassist, Wendell Walter, get a new punk group going, named, by Cole, Savage Joy. What follows among the five of them is both joyful and savage, a feast of love, music, sex, violence, blood, and madness.

Robert Dunn is a writer, teacher, and photographer. He has published widely, including work in The New Yorker and an O. Henry Prize story, as well as the musical novels Pink Cadillac, Cutting Time, Soul Cavalcade, Meet the Annas, Look at Flower, and Stations of the Cross. He lives in New York City.

Cold Spring Hallelujah

Heidi Barr

Cold Spring Hallelujah explores the experience of being human in a world that often seems broken. Woven together by threads of healing, coming to terms with limitation, and deep reflection on what truly matters, author Heidi Barr issues an invitation to notice the fractured radiance that has the potential to be uncovered in each human life—and to claim the story that finds a foundation in love, of both self and neighbor. Often in dialogue with the reader, she writes, “Claiming your story takes patience and persistence. It takes the sort of self compassion that might, one day, paint the sky with a splendor that can only be found by falling into the fractured radiance that defines what it means to be alive on planet earth. Be brave enough to look through a different lens if you need to, and explore an unfamiliar path. Let the stumbles and the joys and everything in between lead you toward hallelujah. I’ll meet you there.” Cold Spring Hallelujah is a book to keep close on the path into healing.

Heidi Barr is a wellness coach and coordinates with yoga studios, teachers, and organic farms to offer retreat experiences. She is committed to cultivating ways of being that are life-giving and sustainable for people, communities and the planet. She lives near the St. Croix River Valley in Minnesota.

Rewriting Stella

Dan Tuttle

This is a story about what we stand for and how that makes us who we are. It's a coming-of-age tale about a girl, a boy, a dog, a dam, a travel ban, an orange toddler, a political movement and the hip-hop guide to life. It's a novel that confronts questions of privilege, identity, voice and influence in a post-truth world. But most of all, it's about the power of the stories we tell ourselves.

Dan Tuttle prizes whimsy, abhors boredom, and has a middling relationship with focus. This combination led to Rewriting Stella. That, and a damn long drive to the Serengeti. His sonnet obsession began as a gift-giving exercise. After a rather pleasant dinner one night he decided to write up the occasion in oddly formal poetry, offer shout-outs to each participant, and email it to them. None replied. Thrilled by market demand, he then made a habit of memorializing occasions in iambic pentameter. The power of the stories we tell ourselves and all that. Eventually Stella matured and those stories began to make sense.

Five Hearts of Aloneness

Walker Abel

The poems in this book, Walker Abel’s third collection, seem to spiral around some core yearning or intuition of beauty at the very center of life and experience. There is an ungraspable quality to this realization, a depth without end, but these poems swim, circle, and glimmer from within that water. Some reflect inclinations toward the unity and stillness of Buddhist/Taoist contemplation, while others reach out toward an embodied and passionate engagement with the particulars of life. This is accessible poetry. We feel common ground with the Wanderer: a core sense of self as it moves through interconnections with a multitude of other selves living among, and as, mountains, rivers, sea, desert.

Walker Abel is a former teacher who has written most of his poetry in field journals while out on 9-week academic programs, which were taught entirely off-campus during a series of backpacking trips in wild areas of California. His first book, The Uncalloused Hand, was a Finalist in Foreword Reviews 2014 Book of the Year and winner of the Gold in the 2015 Nautilus Awards. He lives at a remote, off-grid home in northern California.

Juice

Charles Springer

Juice will take readers to a world that is so real it’s fake, so fake it’s real, and so fantastical you can’t figure out if you are coming or going. Deep sadness mingles with slapstick and everyone is getting up and going to work in the underbelly of Heaven. This book is a magical joyride on a spaceship made of dust and stars, cobwebs and takeout boxes, fenders and a little hay that shoots us straight to a carnival of hyperrealism, where the side show is a mirror into our souls.

Charles Springer has degrees in anthropology and is an award-winning painter. A Pushcart Prize nominee, he has published in over seventy journals including The Cincinnati Review, Edison Literary Review, and the Windsor Review. He writes from the family farm in Caldwell, Pennsylvania.

“The author clearly portrays Randy’s attitude and cowgirl abilities . . . Pullen’s textured and colorful illustrations offer realistic animal portraits and rich landscape scenes, often spanning two pages.” — Kirkus Reviews

Yeehaw! Rowdy Randy shouted to the wind. I was born to buck! Rowdy Randy is the toughest cowgirl around. Never mind that this broncobuster is a horsefly. She acts taller than any tall tale. She might be easy to overlook, but Rowdy Randy definitely can’t be ignored. She spends her days buzzing and biting all the creatures in her path, all the while stirring up a whole heap of trouble. Saddle up and hold on tight for a story that’ll jangle your spurs and blow your cowboy hat clean off.

Casey Rislov has actively been involved with children in sports and academics from preschool age to high school for more than 25 years. She is the author of Come In and Love is Forever. She lives in Casper, Wyoming. Zachary Pullen’s picture book illustrations have won awards and garnered starred reviews. He has been honored several times with acceptance into the prestigious Society of Illustrators juried shows and the Communication Arts: Illustration Annual, best in current illustration. He lives under the big blue skies of Wyoming.

What do you think of when you see a door? Doors can lead to many places. An open door means welcome. An open door can mean an opportunity to learn something new, meet new friends, and try new activities. Each door opens to a part of you. Each door opens to all the possibilities of YOU! In this unique and comforting book, young readers will walk through many metaphorical doors and explore all the different aspects that make up each of our lives: family, neighborhood, charity, friendship, education, creativity, sports, and nature. Open the Doors to You offers a gentle and playful way to expand a sense of self-awareness in children, building resilience, empathy, and emotional intelligence. Which door would you like to open first?

Refugees

Brian Bilston
Illustrations by José Sanabria

Refugees is a book of two voices. The first one sees the people fleeing from war and persecution and asks, “Why here? Why my country?” It is a feeling many people share. It is one of fear and suspicion. But when you read the text the opposite way, a new voice emerges. It says, “Why not make them welcome? Why not share the things we have?” The world is undergoing a period of mass human migration. Whether this is caused by war, persecution or economics, the people we see on the news in those camps are waiting—waiting to live their lives. There are two sides to every debate. There are two sides to a wall. This story shows both sides of the issue with skill and the illustrations depict the issue in a magic realism style, powerful but never frightening, and will promote a deeper discussion on this topic with an older child.

Brian Bilston is a secretive figure. His true identity is hidden in a cloud of pipe smoke from his supposed author photograph. From fragments of information pulled together from various twitter feeds, we know he likes cycling, Vimto and dislikes Jeremy Clarkson. He is a published writer in anthologies. This is his first picture book.

Where is Tatum’s Voice?
Our Journey with Childhood Apraxia of Speech
Bridget Tippett

Raising a child with apraxia is truly a blessing. It has taught me to slow down, enjoy the small moments, and celebrate the baby steps. It has made me cry happy tears over the smallest bit of progress, such as saying a new word. It has also made me cry sad tears over the frustration of not being able to understand what our daughter wants or needs as she is crying out of frustration. This lifelong apraxia journey we are on is so challenging some days. However, it has a unique beauty of its own; you just have to see it through the eyes of a child with apraxia.

Advocate, teacher, wife, and mom, Bridget Tippett, is beyond blessed to have written her first book. She feels strongly that every child deserves a voice and is passionate about being an apraxia advocate for her daughter, Tatum, and other children who are diagnosed with this rare neurological speech and motor disorder. Bridget, her husband Dan, and their children, Jack and Tatum, live in southwest Wisconsin.

The Woodstock Story
50th Anniversary Edition
Abigail Yasgur and Joseph Lipner
Illustrations by Barbara Mendes

“After so much time, a little rhyme, an allegory that tells the story, to future generations. Terrific.” —Michael Lang, Producer of the 1969 Woodstock Music Festival

An edition to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the iconic Woodstock festival. With easy to read lively verse and illustrations reminiscent of the era’s album covers, this tale commemorates the historic three-day music festival that became a symbol of the peace and love generation: Woodstock. Dairy farmer Max Yasgur made rock ‘n’ roll history when he allowed a group of flower children to gather on his farm. Thousands from across the land flocked to listen to the rock groups of the day—the Grateful Dead, Richie Havens, Jimi Hendrix, Janis Joplin, and Santana. They pitched a tent village, danced joyfully in front of the giant stage blasting music celebrating the Aquarian age; and when it was over, they set out to rebuild the universe. This is an inspirational book that shares the value of kindness and openness. At the end of the book there is a full page of historical notes and context for the Woodstock festival. The lyrics to the song “Woodstock” written by Joni Mitchell also appear at the end of the book.

Abigail Yasgur is a cousin of Max Yasgur. She is a librarian and artist and currently works in development for a non profit organization. Joseph Lipner is a judge and writer. Barbara Mendes is an artist. They all live in Los Angeles.

Recycling Creatively with L.T.
Tom Noll
Illustrations by Kimiyo Nishio

Mother’s Day is fast approaching, and L.T. is anxious to find a suitable gift. When he spots an old canopy bed in the local junkyard, L.T. thinks it’s just the thing to give his mother the “flower bed” she has always wanted. Little does he know how much work it will be to get it home and planted in time let alone who will end up sleeping in it? L.T. has become the new recycling hero! The series is about his adventures in recycling creatively with it’s colorful, whimsical illustrations, nostalgic look and inspiring messages reminding us all that we still need to recycle, go green, be environmentally friendly, and help save our planet for our future generations. L.T. will inspire and empower young ones; by helping them to understand that everyday tasks like reducing waste, reusing, re-purposing things and recycling has a real positive effect in our lives and in the world.

Tom Noll is an artist, sculptor, landscape designer, and advocate for going green. He is well known in the Washington, DC metro area for his popular and imaginative White Bicycle Fence Art Installation at the Heart of Bloomingdale Park, which he decorates for major holidays and becomes a tourist photo site. He lives in Somerset, Ohio. Kimiyo Nishio is a graphic designer and illustrator who loves print design such as creating logos and packaging, but illustration has been her all-time favorite thing to do since she was a little girl. Except, to Luna’s dismay, Duke, the dog park bully is also at the dog park and he is up to his usual not-so-nice ways.

Will Luna decide that enough is enough? Will Luna finally stand up for herself and her friends?

Parents and young children will enjoy this playful approach to a serious topic and learn, through Luna, that you can be strong without being forceful.

Deep in the woods, a gnarled tree grows. Its thick, black trunk twists angrily up into the night sky. Held in place by the magic of a long-ago patriarch, it has waited centuries to lure a descendant into its trap. When Tavorian Kreet and his mom move in with his great-grandmother, Tav is forbidden to go into the woods on the estate. But like most 11-year-olds, he just can’t resist. After secretly exploring the woods, Tav begins having dreams about a supernatural tree. Soon, the dreams change from pleasant to dark and menacing. On a dare, Tav ventures farther into the woods with his new friend, Harper. There, they meet a mysterious, mute boy named Edward who lives in a decrepit cabin nearby. Afraid, and unable to speak, Edward scrawls “Wicked Tree” on the ground. Determined to help Edward, Tav enlists Harper, and they search the estate for clues to Edward’s identity and how to help him. With Harper’s help, Tav pieces together the Kreet family history and discovers an ancient curse. If Tav wants to save his friends and family, he must go into the heart of the woods, find the Wicked Tree, and confront a most evil magic.

The Lost Stone of SkyCity

HM Waugh

This adventure novel is set in a fantasy world that explores the magic of earth and the elements and human nature through a tale of friendship and bravery. When Sunaya’s friend Danam is stolen by the powerful Ice-People, she goes to his rescue. But as they cross into the mythical SkyCity of greenstone and gold, Sunaya discovers she has powers of her own. Soon she is forced to complete the formidable Dragon Tests and save Danam again. Along the way, Sunaya comes to realize not everything is set in stone, and friendship can be its own reward.

HM Waugh is an environmental scientist, writer, and educator with a long-term love of wild places and high mountains. This has led to icy feet and sunburnt cheeks in magical countries like New Zealand, Nepal, Bolivia and Switzerland. She has studied dolphins in New Zealand and rare plants in the Wheatbelt, and worked in mining and construction projects across Western Australia. She currently works with both children and animals (concurrently) at Perth Zoo, and loves being able to truthfully say she handles dragons for a job.

Maddie in the Middle

Julia Lawrinson

This is a contemporary and timely exploration of friendships between young girls and the pressures they’re faced with in the modern world. Maddie Lee is in 6th grade and she feels ordinary and dull. Her best and oldest friend Katy is head counselor and aiming at an academic scholarship. Maddie doesn’t have anything that is hers, anything that is special. Enter a mysterious new girl, Samara. Samara is pretty, calm, and before long is in the popular girls’ group. Maddie wants more than anything else to become friends with her. But when she does finally engineer a friendship of sorts, Maddie realizes that Samara has a secret. When Samara enlists Maddie to raise money to keep her family from being separated, Maddie finally feels important and needed. So when Samara asks her to go one step further and start stealing, Maddie makes a decision that will have consequences beyond her imagining.

The Lost Tribes Series

The Lost Tribes: Trials

C. Taylor-Butler

With Safe Harbor under the control of a dangerous new leader, the stakes are higher than ever. Known as a “planet killer,” Earth’s largest supervolcano shows signs of erupting. Now the clock is ticking as the mission’s timeline is reduced to only months. Ben and his friends are slammed into new roles as mission specialists and forced to complete their training as warriors in weeks instead of years. Their search for solutions takes them from a secret outpost in Antarctica to a hidden tomb in China and even the dark side of the moon. As they fight to prevent the destruction of Earth, they finally understand what it means to be human. But is it too little, too late?

C. Taylor-Butler is a trained civil engineer and an educational council chairperson. Her short stories and essays have appeared in The Horn Book and Scholastic’s Read and Rise magazine. She is the author of The Lost Tribes series and Sacred Mountain: Everest. She lives in Kansas City, Missouri.

The Ode to the Goddess of the Luo River

Yu Zhiying

Illustrations by Ye Luying

The Ode to the Goddess of the Luo River is an ancient Chinese poem created by Cao Zhi, a writer living in the state of Wei during the Three Kingdoms period (c. 220-280 CE). In his tale, Cao Zhi is returning from the capital to his own land when he stops at the Luo River for a rest, where he sees a vision of the goddess so powerful that he instantly falls in love with her. Cao sees a nymph of peerless beauty “as elegant as a startled swan and supple as a swimming dragon”. Though he’s swept away by her ethereal beauty, it’s a love that isn’t meant to be. With its high production values and amazingly-detailed-multi-page foldout spreads, this is a special book that will entice art lovers of all ages.

Ye Luying, a graduate of The China Academy of Fine Arts, combines traditional Chinese painting styles with a contemporary graphic-novel sensibility to display the depth of traditional Chinese tales. Her rendition of this classic tale received much acclaim after its publication in China, winning the 13th Golden Dragon Award in 2016 for best illustration, as well as numerous other awards. Yu Zhiying is a professor, writer, and translator of children’s literature. Her modern adaptation of this classic poem preserves the original’s florid writing style and romantic motifs, which have been renowned for more than a thousand years.

The 13-Storey Treehouse

A Play for Young Audiences

Richard Tulloch

Imagine living in a 13-storey treehouse that includes a secret underground laboratory, self-making beds, a vegetable vaporiser and a marshmallow machine that shoots marshmallows into your mouth? Well Andy and Terry are lucky enough to live in one, where they have a series of completely mad adventures. And today Andy and Terry manage to get their dates all mixed up. They thought that they were going to rehearse their new play, The 13-Storey Treehouse, except they forgot to write it! And to make matters worse, they need to find flying cats, a mermaid, a sea monster, an invasion of monkeys, and a giant gorilla! Despite not having any of these things, they do have a box of costumes and props, some pretty awesome technology and friends to help out!

Richard Tulloch is an award-winning playwright, actor, director, author, and one of Australia’s most prolific and popular writers for young audiences. He has more than 60 children’s books to his credit, including The Book of Everything and Bananas in Pyjamas.
Dawn of the Zombie Apocalypse
Lee Murray

Chaos’ latest game is positively epic. Just look at the trailer: the hero Bastion Axestone striding through the city streets, fireballs exploding around him and zombies staggering in his wake. Seb can’t wait to play it. He downloads the works. Explosive effects, 3D upgrade, heavy metal soundtrack and a subliminal quotient—whatever that is. But the next day, Seb and his friends wake up to an apocalypse. Their teachers are missing in action, coach doesn’t come to practice, and Seb’s dad spends all day in his pyjamas. Even worse, not only has Mum not been in to work, she hasn’t bothered to brush her teeth. It’s beginning to look as if every grown-up in Bridgetown—possibly the entire world—has been zombified. They’re obsessed with their personal electronic devices and it’s all Seb’s fault because he’s the one who downloaded the game in the first place. Now, he has to fix it. But how? It’s not as if he can un-download the game. Along with his best mate, Darren, and Talia, The Prettiest Girl in School, Seb has to figure out how to reverse the effect of the computer virus. But in the meantime, the zombies need feeding, Seb’s little sister, Ava, needs minding, and someone has to walk the dog.

Lee Murray is a multi-award-winning writer and editor of fantasy, science fiction, and horror (Sir Julius Vogel, Australian Shadows), most notably for Best Youth Novel for Battle of the Birds, which NZ’s Dominion Post listed in its 2011 Best Books of the Year. Other works include the Taine McKenna military thriller series and Hounds of the Underworld, a supernatural crime-noir co-written with Dan Rabarts. She lives with her family in New Zealand.

So That’s What’s Happening
An Illustrated Guide to Your Changing Body
Gina Dawson
Illustrations by Alex Mankiewicz

Children are hitting puberty younger than ever before, some as young as 8 years old. So That’s What’s Happening! provides accurate, fun and age appropriate information about the changes which lie ahead. The book covers the physical changes of puberty including why people change from child to adult, when and how the changes begin, hormones, changes to body shapes and sizes, growing hair, changing voices, hygiene, pimples, the male and female reproductive systems and how they work, internal body changes, eggs, sperm and how they meet, periods, erections, wet dreams, keeping healthy, moods, feelings, choices and even getting along with parents. Suitable for boys and girls of any age, this book presents an excellent introduction to puberty for the younger reader as well as the late starter. So That’s What’s Happening! is a warm, all-inclusive book that children will love and adults can relax about. Throughout the book is the message that everyone is unique—and that’s okay!

Gina Dawson loves to write children’s books and short stories, and her award-winning stories and poetry have been published in multiple anthologies and magazines. Alex Mankiewicz is an illustrator. She lives in Australia.

Hazel and the Snails
Nan Blanchard

Six-year-old Hazel tends her colony of shoebox snails while observing, with varying degrees of understanding, her father’s illness and final decline. Impending loss forms the heart of this story, but it’s charming and funny, too. Richly rewarding and cleverly layered, adults will be as drawn to it as children. Nan Blanchard’s assured eye is a rare quality in a new writer; seldom has the world of a young child been so delicately or acutely observed. Hazel and the Snails takes you straight to the heart of childhood’s mysteries and delights.

Nan Blanchard is a professional clinician who also teaches in the Professional Clinician, Counselling & Guidance Programmes at the Institute of Education, Massey University. She lives in Wellington. Hazel and the Snails is her first novel for young readers.

Next Time You See a Bee
Emily Morgan

This book will get young readers buzzing about bees! Next Time You See a Bee reveals the big impact these little insects have on the world. It shows how the physical features of bees make them pros at collecting and spreading pollen. It explains how bees pollinate flowers, allowing the plants to produce delicious foods such as apples, almonds, and peaches. It also introduces readers to the wide variety of North America’s native bee species, discusses why bees are threatened, and shares what readers can do to help. After reading Next Time You See a Bee, curious kids can partner with adults to observe these remarkable creatures without fear—and take bee-friendly measures to protect the insects for the benefit of us all.

Emily Morgan is an author-educator who knows how to connect with children both intellectually and emotionally. A former elementary and middle school teacher, she coauthors the series Picture-Perfect Science and the “Teaching Through Trade Books” column in Science and Children, NSTA’s elementary-level journal, and is the author of the Next Time You See series from NSTA Press.

Feral
A Novel
Nicole Luiken

Seventeen-year-old Chloe fears she’s a Dud, a child born to two werewolves who can’t change into a wolf. If she’s still a Dud by the time she reaches adulthood, she’ll be exiled. In the meantime, she’s at the bottom of the pack hierarchy. But Chloe is a natural Alpha, unable to bow her head meekly. While running through the woods, she encounters a feral werewolf with the opposite problem: he’s trapped in wolf form. Chloe suspects the feral is her old classmate, Marcus, who everyone believes died along with the rest of his family in a mysterious plane crash last year. Chloe vows to help Marcus regain his human self because giving up on him would mean admitting possible failure for herself, too. But she must act quickly. Pack law mandates killing ferals.

Nicole Luiken wrote her first book at age 13 and was published while still in high school. She is the author of 17 novels, most of them written for teens. Her titles include Violet Eyes and Silver Eyes. She lives in Edmonton.
Clan Hakon Series

The Viking’s Consort

Quinn Loftis

Allete Auvray isn’t just heir to the English throne. Since marrying her beloved Viking fiancé, Jarl Torben, she’s also the new queen of his clan, fulfilling a prophecy made by the clan’s former Oracle that spoke of a foreign bride who would lead their people and unite the Northerners. But this life isn’t about courtesans and ballroom finery. It’s about leading a ferocious clan of Vikings into battle, and she can’t do that unless she completely becomes one of them—a shieldmaiden of Clan Hakon. With war against her former fiancé, King Cathal, on the horizon, Allete will sacrifice everything to ensure she’s up to the task of leading Clan Hakon to victory. But will she be able to do enough to earn the respect of her sisters-in-arms? Allete’s sister, Dayna, is in the hands of a witch, her well-being unknown. Cathal has his armies at the ready, and Allete and Torben know they don’t stand a chance on their own. To make matters worse, Brant, Torben’s right-hand man and the Viking who has laid claim to Dayna’s heart, is holding onto his sanity by a thread—fighting the urge to go after Dayna with or without an army behind him. With everything at stake, Allete and Torben must hold onto each other as they fight to save her sister and bring Cathal down once and for all.

Quinn Loftis is the author of 20 novels including Fate and Fury. Her writing passion is fantasy and paranormal though she has dabbled in contemporary at least once. She lives in Western Arkansas.

The Alive? Series

Barely Alive

Melissa Woods

Violet has survived a year of the zompocalypse—despite the fact she was bitten by a zombie on day one, occasionally eats people, and has no cardio ability whatsoever. Now she’s living in a community called Harmony, trying to piece her life back together following the loss of one of her closest friends. But things in Harmony are not always as they seem, and Violet’s world—as usual—becomes more complicated than she ever could have anticipated. She has to deal with dwindling food supplies, a leader with psychopathic urges, and her continuous desire to eat human flesh—and if that wasn’t enough, the return of someone from her past threatens to rock her entire foundation. Just another day in the life of a half-zombie!

Melissa Woods is a teacher by day and a writer by night. She has always been fascinated with stories about living through an apocalyptic event, and with characters who feel so real that they become part of the reader long after the book was put away. She wrote the first draft of Alive! at 16 and has been hooked on writing ever since. She lives in Essex, UK.

Twisted Ever After Series

Rumpel’s Redemption
Tamara Grantham

“A sparkling fantasy.” —Kirkus Reviews

Kardiya Von Fiddlestrum, a dark elf, yearns for adventure. But when she gets kidnapped by Rumpel Stiltskin and taken to a foreign magical realm, she realizes not all adventures are created equal. Rumpel Stiltskin wants revenge on Kardiya’s grandmother for the curse that turned him into a goblin. Now free of that curse and in human-form again, the young prince knows he can use Kardiya to get to her grandmother. But revenge isn’t Rumpel’s only motivation. He’s also seeking the child of the dark elves from an ancient prophecy—only she can save his home, which has been infiltrated by the Sa’hadov. Could Kardiya be this elf? It may not matter, since she’s refusing to cooperate either way. But things change when she learns a hard truth... Agreeing to help her kidnapper wasn’t her first choice—but neither was falling in love with him. Rumpel’s Redemption is the third and final book in the Twisted Ever After series by Tamara Grantham, the award-winning author of more than a dozen books and novellas.

Tamara Grantham was born and raised in Southeast Texas. She earned a Bachelor’s degree in English from Lamar University. After marrying her husband David, she followed him through his training to become a burn surgeon, which consisted of moving from Vidor, Texas to Galveston, Texas, then to Tulsa, Oklahoma, back to Galveston, and they finally settled in Wichita, Kansas. Tamara and David have five active, sweet, and almost always well-mannered children, ages zero to ten years. Their two pets, June—the Jack Russell Terrier, and Chester—a black cat, help to keep the house lively (in addition to the children). When Tamara isn’t writing or tending her children, she enjoys taking walks through the woods, eating chocolate, and very infrequently, she enjoys a good night’s sleep.

The Equinora Chronicles Series

The Bloodwolf War
Paula Boer

Equinora, the world where horses live in harmony with people, is in trouble. The six unicorn guardians created by the Goddess have abandoned their roles and vicious bloodwolves rampage across the land, massacring the herds and villagers. Fleet, a young stallion without a territory, dreams of galloping with other horses and building a herd of his own. But an attack by a bloodwolf leaves him poisoned and alone. Driven by despair and a promise to fulfil his dying dam’s vision, Fleet sets out to discover how to vanquish the bloodwolves. The only help the renegade unicorns provide is to insist Fleet follow a prophecy to confront the villainous Shadow, an equine so powerful that the Goddess imprisoned him to prevent him destroying her realm. Accompanied by Yuma, a young man desperate to escape his destiny, and Tatuk, a tiny dragon, Fleet seeks Shadow and a cure for the bloodwolf poison. But even as he begins to fear the selfish unicorns have sent him to his death, he discovers a secret that might mean he has a chance to save all horses and people from annihilation.

Paula Boer is a regular contributor to horse magazines and has had many animal short stories published. She is the author of the Brumbies series. She lives in Australia.
The Night Weaver

Monique Snyman

Shadow Grove isn’t a typical town. Bad things happen here. Children disappear, one after the other, and nobody is doing anything about it. Parents don’t grieve, missing posters don’t line the streets, and the sheriff seems unconcerned. 17-year-old Rachel Cleary lives on the outskirts of Shadow Grove, next to the creepy forest everyone pretends doesn’t exist. Usually the forest is filled with an eerie calm, an unmistakable graveyard solemnity. But the trees have started whispering, forgotten creatures are stirring, and the nights feel darker than ever. Something is stalking the residents of Shadow Grove, changing them into brain-dead caricatures of themselves. It’s up to Rachel to stop the devouring of her hometown before all is destroyed and everyone she loves is forever lost.

Monique Snyman’s mind is a confusing bedlam of glitter and death, where candy-coated gore is found in abundance and homicidal unicorns thrive. When she’s not playing referee to her imaginary friends or trying to overdose on caffeine, she’s doing something with words—be it writing, reading, or fixing all the words. She is the author of Muti Nation. She lives outside Johannesburg, South Africa.

I Am Me

Teen Artists and Writers Speak Out on Being Yourself

Edited by Tom Worthen, Ph.D.

I Am Me: Teen Artists and Writers Speak Out on Being Yourself pairs award winning art and writing to empower teens to shake off negative influences and realize it is okay to be themselves. Each piece of art is skillfully matched with writing to reflect the attitude of a generation of teens who want to fit in, but feel inadequate due to societal pressures. This is a powerful book that can help young people believe that you don’t have to achieve “perfection” to be “perfect.”

Tom Worthen is an editor and teacher. He teaches at Utah State University where his Speech and Debate teams have won several national championships. He lives in Smithfield, Utah.
Speak No Evil
Liana Gardner

What if every time you told the truth, evil followed? My name is Melody Fisher. My daddy was a snake handler in Appalachia until Mama died. Though years have passed, I can still hear the rattle before the strike that took her from me. And it’s all my fault. Since then, I’ve been passed around from foster home to foster home. I didn’t think anything could be as bad as losing Mama. I was wrong. But I will not speak of things people have done to me. Every time I do, worse evil follows. Now, the only thing I trust is what saved me years ago. Back when I would sing the snakes calm.

Liana Gardner is the multi-award-winning author of the Misfit McCabe series, 7th Grade Revolution, and The Journal of Angela Ashby. She volunteers with high school students through the International Trade Education Programs (ITEP). She lives in Anaheim, California.

The Blacksmith

Barbara Howe

How is the king like a blacksmith? He has a hammer as well as a sword. Duncan Archer has heard that riddle many times, but he doesn’t know what it means. No one does, not even the members of the Royal Guild of Swordsmiths. It isn’t Duncan’s business anyway. Good sense tells him to stick to beating iron into shape for the residents of his backwater town, and not worry about the king and his nobles pounding Frankland into the ground. But good sense never stopped Duncan from poking his nose into everyone else’s business. If it had, he might not be a fugitive, the subject of the biggest manhunt in the country’s history. With a charge of murder hanging over his head like a sword, understanding that riddle becomes much more urgent.

Barbara Howe is as a software developer in the movie industry. She is the author of Reforging series. She lives in New Zealand.

Defy The Stars Series

Until Death Do Us Part

Susan Harris

Defying death takes a toll. Rowan and Julian never expected to survive, but now they are back from their ordeal changed in ways nobody could have imagined and reluctant to share their struggles—even with each other. Not that it matters anyway—personal trials have to take a backseat to duty. As they try to become the king and queen Vernanthia so desperately needs, they must grapple with their newfound powers, a new marriage and all the complications of falling madly in love with someone you barely know. The path of true love was never smoothly paved—but this is a minefield. The epic love story of Rowan and Julian continues in this imaginative retelling of Shakespeare’s classic Romeo & Juliet. If you think you know how this story ends—think again!

Susan Harris is a writer from Cork in Ireland. An avid reader, she quickly grew to love books in the supernatural/fantasy genre. When she is not writing or reading, she loves music, oriental cultures, tattoos, anything Disney and psychology. If she wasn’t a writer she would love to be a FBI profiler or a PA for Dave Grohl or Jared Leto.

An International Sensory Assassin Network Series

Helix
Mary Ting

With her memory still fragmented, Ava returns to the International Sensory Assassin Network (ISAN) to find the twin sister she never knew she had. But as Ava hunts for information, she finds herself tangled in a web of yet more lies and conspiracy. The Helix serum may not be required to access her superpowers, and the number of male assassins—previously considered too volatile to tolerate Helix—is growing in every territory. The more Ava uncovers, the more of a threat she becomes to ISAN. Her only salvation may be to join the rebels ... if she isn’t killed first.

Mary Ting is an international bestselling, award-winning author. After realizing she wanted to become a full-time author, she retired from teaching after twenty years. She also had the privileged of touring with the Magic Johnson Foundation to promote literacy and her children’s chapter book: No Bullies Allowed. She lives in Southern California.

Guardian Series

Guardian
Natasha Deen

Maggie Johnson is dealing with too much — the rising distrust and hate of the townspeople, her growing (and unpredictable) supernatural powers, and the dead, waiting to be transitioned from this side to the next. Right now, they’re her saving grace. But when a soul-eater steals the ghost she’s transitioning, things don’t just take a turn for the worse, they take a turn for the personal. This thing has a connection to her and to her family, and it’s coming for revenge. As Maggie races to stop the entity, the body count ticks up, and the soul-eater’s touch reaches close to home. The answers Maggie seeks are coming to a head, but will she survive the revelation?

Natasha Deen has been published in a variety of genres, from creative non-fiction to YA and romance, and she has appeared in a variety of media outlets as a literacy advocate. She lives in Edmonton.
