Rodin
Daniel Kiecol

Art was more important than anything else for the founder of modern sculpture, who created sculptures that would enjoy a lasting renown, including The Kiss, The Thinker, and The Burghers of Calais. These as well as numerous other sculptures are reproduced here with high-quality photos, showing the whole spectrum of Rodin’s long and productive career.

Daniel Kiecol is a historian who also works as a writer and lecturer. His publications cover a variety of cultural subjects.

Paula Modersohn-Becker
Doris Hansmann

Paula Modersohn-Becker (1876–1907), who was entirely unknown during her lifetime, is today regarded as a pioneer of modernism in Germany. In just a few creative years, an artistic body of work of international significance emerged from both the secluded artists’ village of Worpswede and the seething metropolis of Paris.

Doris Hansmann is an art historian, writer, and editor. She is known through her numerous publications.

Art Africa
Franziska Bolz

The common ground of these expressive objects is their African origin. However, little is known about the artists who created them. On their journey through space and time the context in which these works of art must be seen has changed and thus their meaning has, too. Here they are brought together in a fascinating panorama of African art.

Franziska Bolz is an ethnologist, art historian and curator. Her current focus is contemporary subjects and East African art.

Art Nouveau
Uta Hasekamp

Art Nouveau was a phenomenon with many faces. Between 1890 and 1910, artists developed a variety of styles from the plant-like forms of the Belgian-French Art Nouveau to the ornamentation of the Viennese Secession. They were all striving to create a new, modern style and pursued a comprehensive renewal of art and, in some countries, also a renewed national identity.

Art historian Uta Hasekamp edits and translates publications related to the history of art and writes, in particular, on older art and horticulture.

Art Deco
Franziska Bolz

The Art Deco style, named after the International Exhibition of Decorative Arts, reached its peak in the 1920s. A new artistic language driven by a formidable vital impulse born of recent peace, left its mark on urban and domestic architecture, but also on all forms of design: furniture, mural painting, glassware, ceramics. This book offers a magnificently illustrated panorama of this ornamental aesthetic, which blend into the world’s artistic landscape with materials as luxurious as lacquer, ivory or stingray.

Franziska Bolz is an ethnologist, art historian and curator. Her current focus is contemporary subjects and East African art.

Harem
Valentine Gallet

In the wake of Bonaparte’s Egyptian Campaign, artists of the nineteenth century became fascinated by the Orient and, most particularly, the harems which were so remote from western culture. These places rapidly provided a pretext for drawing the languid bodies of naked women, whose depiction in any other context would have been intolerable. This assembly of numerous works by Orientalist painters constitutes a sublime testimony to an imagined fantasy Orient, located between eroticism and sensuality.

Art historian Valentine Gallet is a graduate of the École du Louvre in Paris. She collaborates with many magazines specialized in art and architecture.

Impressionism
Hajo Duechting

When considering Impressionism, we associate it with the atmospheric landscapes, lively portraits and city scenes of Monet, Renoir, Degas and Cézanne. Utilizing a sketchy painting style, which was accomplished in situ, these artists were able to capture the moment, with their colors corresponding to the prevailing light and weather conditions. This volume, featuring around 300 illustrations, gives an overall perspective of the painting of the Impressionists.

Dr. Hajo Duechting was an art historian, artist and author, known through his numerous publications.

Flemish and Dutch Baroque Painting
Uta Hasekamp

Even though it was a time of near financial ruin in Flanders, Baroque art flourished during this period thanks to the patronage of an arts-minded aristocracy. Meanwhile, the Dutch had become rich from trade and the desire for art found its way into almost every social class in the Netherlands. The naturalistic traditions shared by the two halves of the Low Countries experienced a renaissance of their own at this time.

Art historian Uta Hasekamp edits and translates publications related to the history of art and writes, in particular, on older art and horticulture.

Italian Renaissance Painting
Ruth Dangelmaier

The Italian Renaissance is one of the most important eras in Western art. Painters including Masaccio, Botticelli, Michelangelo, and Titian brought about a fundamental renewal that influenced all of Europe. More than 50 of the most important artists up to 1600 are presented in this book with more than 270 color illustrations.

Art historian Ruth Dangelmaier has worked for many years as a freelance writer and editor. She lives with her family in Cologne.

Vienna 1900 Wien
Janina Nentwig

Vienna around 1900—a fascinating period in which the metropolis on the Danube became an important center of modernity. Historicism, art nouveau and expressionism, were the defining styles, all of which resonated with a touch of typical Viennese morbidity. Artists such as Gustav Klimt, Koloman Moser and Josef Hoffmann were united in their dream of forging a Gesamtkunstwerk, in which not only art, architecture and crafts, but also art and life itself were combined.

Art Nouveau München, Wien, Praha
Thomas Hauffe

Between 1890 and the beginning of the First World War, a new international style developed in architecture and design. Following the example of the English Arts and Crafts movement, the representatives of Art Nouveau turned against the eclectic excesses of historicism and opposed them with organic forms, plant ornamentation and functional constructions. This volume shows the highlights of Art Nouveau in Germany, Austria, Bohemia, Hungary, Italy and Switzerland.

Dr. Thomas Hauffe is an art historian. He wrote his doctorate on the “New German Design” of the 1980s and has published numerous articles on the history of design and art.

European Painting 1750–1880
Daniel Kiecol

The period between 1750 and the end of the 19th century was a time of upheaval. Industrialization in England, the French Revolution, Napoleon and the formation of states in Germany and Italy are just a few historical events that define this period. All these developments were also reflected in European painting: from the rediscovery of antiquity in classicism, through Romanticism with its various national forms, to realism, which discovered completely new themes for art. Containing more than 500 works, this volume is an overview of the most important paintings of these and other styles of this exciting epoch.

Dr. Daniel Kiecol is a historian who also works as a writer and lecturer. His publications cover a variety of cultural subjects.
Spanish Painting 1200-1665
Emma Hansen

From the medieval works of Romanesque and Gothic art to the golden age of the Baroque, from the famous Beatus Apocalypses to Diego Velázquez and Francisco de Zurbarán, Spanish painting offers a unique abundance of artistic themes and styles. Intimately connected with the needs and power displays of the Habsburg dynasty and the Church, Spanish art developed an idiom as varied as it was distinctive. Spanish Painting 1200–1665 covers over 500 works.

Emma Hansen is an art historian, writer and editor. She is known through her numerous publications.

Spanish Painting 1665-1920
Emma Hansen and Ruth Dangelmeier

From the lavish abundance of the late Baroque court and epoch-making painters like Bartolomé Esteban Murillo and Francisco de Goya to the appearance of Romanticism and Classicism in the age of the art academies and the innovative and sometimes scandalous achievements of modernism, Spanish painting offers an extraordinary panorama of outstanding artists, styles, and themes. With around 450 illustrations, Spanish Painting (1665–1920) illuminates the developments from the end of the Golden Age in the 17th century to the early 20th century, and thus serves as a companion to the equally opulent volume Spanish Painting 1200–1665 from Romanesque to the Baroque.

Emma Hansen is an art historian, writer and editor. She is known through her numerous publications. Art historian Ruth Dangelmaier has worked for many years as a freelance writer and editor.

Casa Mexicana
Lina Botero

Casa Mexicana offers an insight into the richness and diversity of the country's architecture and interior design today, from Mexico City’s contemporary skyline, to the opulence of a newly-restored XVI century sugar hacienda on the hills of Malinalco and the sensuality of the palapa homes on the Pacific coast.

Lina Botero, born in Colombia, has lived in the U.S., Mexico and Europe. Her professional experience spans television, radio, interior and jewelry design, and art. For over 20 years she has concentrated on interior design, publishing Semana Decora magazine.

Flandes
Joel Etzold

Proud towers, picturesque market squares with magnificent town halls, canals and bridges: Flanders owes everything to the sea and trade. With its cities like Bruges, Antwerp & Ghent, Flanders has been one of the most important centers of Western art and culture since the middle Ages. The traces of Flemish masters such as Rubens or Van Eyck are much a part of Flanders as the desire for pleasure and good food. It is no wonder then, then the creative Flemings also draw comics, brew 100 different beers, invent chocolates, cook masterfully and of course make the best French fries.

Katja Sassmannshausen works full-time as a director for German television. As a freelance picture editor she can combine her special eye for pictures with her passion for other countries and cultures. Joel Etzold, who once studied ethnology & geography, knows Flanders like the back of his hand. He is a former press officer for Tourism Flanders.

Sweden
Sabine von Kienlin
This illustrated book shows the fascinating diversity and beauty of Sweden. Sweden, a symbol of Scandinavian idyll, inspires with its falun-red wooden houses surrounded by dense forests, with its quiet bays, long sandy beaches, lighthouses and windmills, colorful boathouses, the glittering sea between archipelagos, the infinite number of lakes, the lonely and wide snow landscapes, dog sleds, reindeer and moose.

Udo Bernhart has been working as a freelance photographer and photo journalist for more than 35 years and has published countless reports in national and international magazines. Growing up in the Vinschgau and closely connected to the South Tyrolean landscape, his commissions have taken him all over the world. Traveling and discovering the world belong to Sabine von Kienlin’s passions alongside art and media. She financed her studies as a flight attendant and traveled almost the whole of America and the most diverse places on earth.
